ANNENBERG PLEADS GUILTY OF $1,217,296 TAX EVASION

CHICAGO, April 23 (AP)—M. L. Annenberg, defendant in the largest criminal federal income tax case in history, pleaded guilty today to evading $1,217,296.73 of income taxes for the year 1936.

The plea by the wealthy Philadelphia publisher and former head of an international racing news empire was entered to the fifth count of an indictment accusing him of evading $3,258,809.97 in taxes for the years 1932 to 1936, inclusive.

Fifty per cent penalties and 6 per cent interest would bring to $5,548,384.89 the aggregate which the federal government claimed against him.

BRITISH BOMBARD NARVIK

LONDON, April 23 (INS)—The battle for Narvik is in its final stages. The Norwegian seaport, now a Nazi German base, is expected to fall into allied hands within a few hours, according to a dispatch from Stockholm today.

(According to the official high command in Berlin, British warships today resumed bombardment of Narvik but failed to land reinforcing troops.)

Thousands of Germans are trapped inside Narvik, barricading the streets and fortifying houses for a last stand, the Stockholm dispatch stated. Civilians have been evacuated.

A force of 1500 Germans who left the town to attack the British rear have been surrounded, the dispatch added.

STOCKHOLM, April 23 (INS)—British warships and aircraft opened a slashing attack on a fleet of German transports in the Skagerrak today. Reports from the Swedish island of Ursholmen said a heavy cannonade was heard along the Swedish west coast. Many warships and planes were engaged in the onslaught. Residents of Ursholmen saw a number of destroyers firing while travelling full speed.

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—The British war office reported today that a "sharp engagement" was being fought north of Trondheim, German-held port on the Norwegian west coast.

SWEDES FEAR NAZI COUP

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—French military authorities declared today that the Swedish position had become the "dark side" of the Scandinavian war situation and "important events" appear imminent.

A spokesman at the war ministry's daily press conference said that the Swedes are understood to be alarmed by indications that the Germans, extending their invasion of Scandinavia, would overflow from Denmark and Norway into Swedish territory.

The warning apparently was intended to prepare the French public for any spectacular new development.

Big Guns Blast at Narvik

BERLIN, April 22 (AP)—The German high command acknowledged today British warships again had pounded Narvik, one of the first Nazi footholds in Norway, but allied attempts to bolster the British-French-Norwegian forces in Norway were said to have been balked by crippling sea losses.

The communique today listed one British destroyer sunk and another hit, one transport sunk and another destroyed by fire in an attack yesterday by German warplanes near Andalsnes, allied debarkation point on Norway's west coast.

"The submarine hunt in the Kattegat yielded another success," it said. "A supply steamer in convoy destined for Norway was torpedoed off the west coast of Standlandet."

CLAIM 14 SHIPS SUNK

Earlier, German dispatches reported 14 British transports and warships sunk or damaged in two days.

(An official announcement in London said Britain had lost only 18 warships sunk since the start of the war.)

The high command also reported

Close Net On Nazis In Norway

By STEN HEDMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STOCKHOLM, April 23—British forces prepared today to launch a determined onslaught against German forces at Narvik and at the same time drew an allied military net closer around Nazi-held Trondheim.

(A Reuters (British) dispatch from Gaddede on the Norwegian frontier stated fierce fighting was proceeding between British and German forces at Stiklestad, north of the port of Trondheim.

(This dispatch said that a German destroyer from Trondheim landed troops north of the port with the object of attacking the British from the rear. It added, however, that the Germans were

3 British Ships Sunk During the Week

LONDON, April 23 (INS)—Three British merchant ships totalling 11,352 tons were sunk during the week ended April 21, the British admiralty announced today.

No neutral vessels were sunk, the announcement said. German losses were estimated at nine ships.

Paris Has Air Raid Jitters

PARIS, April 23 (INS)—Anti-aircraft batteries in the Paris region went into action spasmodically during the night, searchlights swept the skies and droning planes were heard, but authorities declared today no incidents had occurred.

Air raid alarms were sounded in various parts of France, indicating that German reconnaissance planes were active.

An artillery duel lasted several hours in the Nied river section of the western front.

An attack by German detachments east of the Moselle, supported by German artillery, was broken up and repulsed with heavy losses to the Nazis, reports to Paris stated.

Polish Official Slashes 2, Self

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—Tabeuz Swiecicki, former Polish minister of information and former general manager of the Polish Telegraphic Agency, and his wife and sister were found today with their throats slashed in their Paris apartment. Both women were in a serious condition, but Swiecicki's injury was less grave.

Police said they had placed Swiecicki under surveillance. Friends said he had been brooding over the fate of his country.

Duff-Cooper For War on All Nazis

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—Via Radio)—War to the death against the whole German people and not merely against the Nazi regime was urged today by Alfred Duff-Cooper, former first lord of the British admiralty.

Duff-Cooper, speaking before the Royal Society of St. George in place of Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, said German attacks upon Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark and Norway were "crimes of the whole people."

CRIMES OF NATION

Reviewing acts of the German military in the last few years, Duff-Cooper spoke of them as a "series of crimes" which made a terror of Europe, and declared they were not the crimes of one man or a group of criminals "but the crimes of a whole people."

Duff-Cooper said it was "wishful thinking to believe we can drive a wedge between the German government and the German people."

"We must accept no soft words or specious promises as we did when they came whining and groveling to Versailles," he said, "but must defeat the German people in battle."

Duff-Cooper declared that "Germany has assumed many ugly shapes in her past, but never has the face of Germany assumed so villainous and vile an aspect as under leadership of this little gang of blood-stained, money-making murderers."

SAYS VICTORY CERTAIN

"Hitler says the entire German people is behind him," Duff-Cooper said. "I, for one, am prepared to take him at his word."

The audience cheered when Duff-Cooper said that Britain had command of the sea to an even greater extent now than she had eight months ago and that no nation with command of the seas ever had been defeated in a great war.

"How long it will take to achieve victory," he said, "no man can say, but one thing we do know and that is that victory is certain in the end."

Nazi Warplane Fires On Swedish Boats

STOCKHOLM, April 23 (INS)—Swedish authorities charged today that a German warplane attacked and machine-gunned two Swedish fishing trawlers, wounding one fisherman in the leg.

The charge was made less than 24 hours after Sweden protested sharply to the Reich against aerial violations of Swedish neutrality. Authorities declared the attacked trawlers, the Norden and Vixen, were clearly marked with the Swedish flag.

BRITAIN ORDERS TAX BOOST TO PAY VAST WAR COSTS

LONDON, April 23 (INS)—Additional taxes on spirits, beer, tobacco and matches, to help in meeting the cost of war, were announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon today. The income tax, however, will remain at the present basic figure of 7 shillings 6 pence in the pound (roughly 37 per cent).

The beer tax will be increased 1 penny (12-3 cents) a pint. The tax on whiskey will be boosted 1 shilling 9 pence half-penny a bottle, and that on tobacco 3 pence an ounce.

The chancellor also announced a general new "purchase" or sales tax. The purchase tax, he said, will be a percentage on the price at the stage when the wholesaler sells to the retailer.

The letter post rate will be increased from 1½ pence to 2½ pence. Telephone charges will be boosted 15 per cent.

The tax on matches goes from ½ penny a box to 1½ pence.

The rate on postal card stamps increases from 1 penny to 2 pence. Foreign postage rates are boosted ½ penny to three pence minimum.

All the postal rate changes are effective May 1.

Great Britain is "saving money" on the war so far, Sir John disclosed in his budget speech to Commons.

Sir John revealed the first parliamentary war credit vote of $2,000,000,000 had been underspent by $366,000,000. The exchequer, he said, has saved $466,000,000 under various headings.

In addition, he revealed, the revenue estimate of $3,980,000,000 has been exceeded by $216,000,000.

The income tax, Sir John revealed, has produced $1,560,000,000,

SUES FOR DIVORCE—Charging Paul Curley, son of the ex-Governor, with an ungovernable temper and intemperance, Mrs. Marie Phillips Curley, former Broadway showgirl, today had filed suit for divorce in Miami, Fla. She seeks alimony of $150 a week. The couple are pictured here before domestic troubles crossed their path.

Curley Says Son Unable to Pay Alimony

If beautiful Marie Phillips Curley, divorce-seeking wife of Paul G. Curley, hopes to share in the Curley gold mine and profits of radio station WMEX she is doomed to disappointment, it was revealed by her father-in-law, ex-Governor Curley, today.

Charging young Curley with ungovernable temper and intemperance and seeking alimony of $150 dollars a week, the show-girl bride brought action in Miami courts.

She told the courts that Paul held an interest in station WMEX and as secretary of his father's gold mine held 50,000 shares of stock. She further asked the court to restrain young Curley, who now is at nearby Coral Gables, from leaving its jurisdiction.

"Paul does not have 50,000 shares of stock," the former governor said today. In fact, he has no stock and neither is he secretary of the corporation.

"Further, he does not have an interest in station WMEX. He was only an employe of that station when he was stricken ill several weeks ago. He's a pretty sick boy and has been recuperating for the last five weeks in Florida."

The former governor indicated that his son would not contest the divorce action but most certainly would battle the alimony provisions which his wife seeks.

SANG IN NIGHT CLUB

She was a night club singer, performing in a New York night club under the name of Lillian Duval when young Curley met her on a visit to New York.

A whirlwind courtship and subsequent marriage followed just at the time the ex-governor's son completed his course of study at Georgetown University.

The divorce action creates less surprise than had the wedding, for there have been numerous reports of rifts between the two. They were married at Mount Ridge, N. Y., Dec. 20, 1936.

In February, 1939, Mrs. Curley left Boston for Coral Gables, Florida. From that winter refuge reports issued from time to time that she was contemplating severing the marriage bonds. Young Curley admitted he would not be surprised at such action.

They were reunited a few weeks later and Mrs. Curley returned to Boston to live. In March of this year she again fled to her Florida haven and all efforts at reconciliation were in vain.

Mrs. Curley was considered one

PARENTS WARNED IN 48-CENT MURDER

Described by the court as object lessons to a modern parenthood of broken homes, Harrison Howes, Jr., 19, and his plump sweetheart, Helen E. Hayes, 17, today began paying the penalty of the law for a 48-cent murder.

Howes, one of five children of a New Bedford veteran motorman, was sentenced to life at State Prison, while the girl, daughter of a Ogunquit nurse, received a term of 2½ years at the house of correction.

As the parents of both juveniles listened in a packed Norfolk Superior Criminal Court at Dedham, Judge Thomas H. Dowd delivered a scalding indictment of parents for bringing children into the world and then throwing them to the dogs of fate."

"Family and environment in broken homes is the cause of most trouble like this," he continued.

"This cannot be remedied by sentences in court. It can only be remedied in the family circle itself. Unless this is done, we will have juvenile crime. If they cannot get a good example in the home, they will not get it in the street.

"It might well be a lesson for the community and the parents in this court room to start and think of performing their duty to the person they bring into the world without consent of that person."

The youthful couple were indicted for first degree murder in the fatal holdup of Simon Danilovitch, a farm hand, whose bullet pierced body was found in a junk heap in Stoughton Oct. 1, 1939.

AFTER BEING sentenced to House of Correction for 2½ years, Helen Hayes, 17, of Ogunquit, Me., is led from Dedham court following conviction of being an accessory after the fact in the slaying of Simon Danilovich, Stoughton dump worker. Her companion, Harrison Howes, was given life term in State Prison.

Quincy Girl Wins Film Chance

The dreams of a child prodigy came true today with announcement that Jean Donaldson, 20-year-old Quincy dancing beauty, has won her big chance in magic Hollywood.

From Cinema Productions, Inc., came the disclosure that the daughter of a famous dancing mother had triumphed over thousands of girls in the nation in a talent quest.

For Jean, who suggests a combination of Hedy LaMarr and Eleanor Powell, there is a trip to Hollywood, a course in dramatics and a screen test, and—??.

However, the enterprising Quincy High School graduate has already provided herself with the Hollywood trip and the dramatics' course. Now in Hollywood, she teaches dancing to support her mother, now Mrs. William Lackie of 56 Spear st., Quincy.

JEAN DONALDSON

Elated but not entirely surprised over the news was Jean's mother, who also danced under the name of Jean Donaldson as a member of the celebrated Tiller girls troupe of her native England.

Mrs. Lackie, the wife of an electrician at the Fore River shipyard, knew Jean was going to make good because on top of dreaming about it her daughter spent six hours daily in the hard grind of working out routine dance steps.

"Jean just casually entered the contest a year ago, and then forgot about it," the mother said. "She wrote me and said she was nearly floored when she learned she had been declared the winner."

Crushed by Plow, Fights for Life

Ralph Parker, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Parker of Fayette st., Quincy, crushed under a 3,000 pound snow plow while he was at play, battled death today at Quincy City Hospital and appeared to be winning, doctors said.

During the night the child's condition improved slightly, although his name was still on the danger list.

In some unaccountable way, the plow toppled on the child while he was playing with Donald Johnson, also six years old, in a yard on Newport ave., Wollaston, where highway equipment is stored.

Cries of the playmate aroused the attention of Arthur Cabral, truck driver, who discovered the unconscious boy pinned beneath the plow.

Victim Aids Model Youth

His victim's plea for leniency won Howard Kilmer, 21-year-old Natick model youth, a lightened sentence today in Dedham Superior Court on charges of breaking and entering to which he had pleaded guilty.

Judge Thomas H. Dowd sentenced Kilmer to an indefinite term in Concord Reformatory to be served concurrently with one he is now doing. The leniency plea was made by Mrs. Homer Griffin, Grove st., Wellesely.

Mrs. Griffin, victim of one of Kilmer's breaks, told the court she and her husband had taken an interest in him and would try to get him a job when he is released.

Kilmer is at present serving an indefinite sentence at Concord for breaks in Middlesex County.

DIVORCE FRAMEUP CHARGED BY WIFE

Charges of an alleged plot by her husband and his friend to frame false evidence against her for purposes of a divorce were aired by Mr. Katherine Goldberg, wife of Hyman Goldberg, Brighton druggist, before Judge Thomas H. Connelly in Brighton district court.

Arraigned with the husband on charges of conspiracy were Philip Woodman of Jaffet st., Newton, and Lester Nash, a photographer of Strathmore rd., Brighton. All pleaded not guilty.

Mrs. Goldberg testified Woodman had been introduced into her home by her husband as a visiting friend and that he had stayed three weeks. When she suggested that Woodman leave because they lacked room, her husband "flew into a violent rage," she testified.

"Finally, my husband and Woodman suggested that I take a trip to the World's Fair in New York. My husband said he could not go with me and he asked Woodman to take me," she testified.

"I told my husband that I would rather not go alone with Woodman and would like to have my sister go with me, but he refused to let any of my relatives accompany me."

Mrs. Goldberg then testified her husband bought her a new outfit of clothes and gave her $15, adding that he would send more if she needed it. She continued:

"Finally I started for New York with Woodman, who drove the car. We hadn't gone many miles when I noticed the lights of a car following us. Woodman told me it was my imagination.

"The roadway was wet, and Woodman complained that his eyes were tired and that he would have to stop.

"We finally arrived at an overnight camp, and he persuaded me to occupy one of the cabins, and he said he would remain outside in the car.

"He swore by his mother that no harm would come to me," Mrs. Goldberg testified.

At this point a recess was taken and Mrs. Goldberg was to resume her testimony when court reconvened.

Jobless Cash Repaid In Lawrence Probe

Robert E. Marshall, director of the State unemployment compensation commission, today announced that a supervisor and examiners of the division have interviewed 113 persons in the Lawrence district office who had illegally obtained unemployment compensation while working, and that all but nine agreed with the auditors' report.

Marshall said that seven of the 104 who agreed that they had taken money illegally have paid back what they had taken. The others have agreed to do so on the installment plan, he said.

The director said interviews will continue daily until all of the 3811 persons alleged to have illegally obtained the money from the commission have been questioned.

In the cases of those who refuse to return the money—a total of more than $81,000—Marshall will turn the facts over to the State Police for further investigation.

If evidence of criminal intent is proven, prosecutions will follow.

Meantime, auditors of the division will complete their investigation of 1765 additional cases where, according to Marshall, the indications are that money was illegally obtained.

Swap Divorces End at Altar

LOS ANGELES, April 23 (AP)—In divorce suits and answers some months ago, each of two husbands charged the other stole his wife's love—and the wives similarly accused each other as to the husbands.

William Ingels claimed his wife, Catherine, left him with the statement that she planned to live with Francis C Farmer for two weeks to learn whether they were "properly suited" to each other.

All charges were modified, however, and divorces were granted On January, 20, the former Mrs. Ingels and Farmer were married at Las Vagas, Nev., and today friends learned that Ingels and the former Isabella Farmer were wed at Yuma, Ariz., April 13.

Plea of Barred Lawyer Balked

The reinstatement petition of a disbarred Boston lawyer, Wilfred B. Keenan, 55, of Jamaica Plain, struck a snag in Suffolk Superior Court today.

Consideration of the petition was temporarily blocked when Damon E. Hall, former president of the Boston Bar Ass'n, successfully argued that the Massachusetts Supreme Court ought to pass on the lower court's jurisdiction.

As a precedent in support of his contention, Hall cited the denied petition of former Atty. Daniel H. Coakley, now a member of the Governor's Council.

Coakley first sought reinstatement through the Superior Court, but was obliged to transfer his petition to the Supreme Court, which refused it, Hall asserted.

SAFETY LANES GET HICKEY O.K.

The only way to halt the alarming increase in pedestrian fatalities is to paint safety lanes on "practically every intersection in Boston" and severely punish motorists who ignore them, Traffic Commissioner William P. Hickey said today.

Commissioner Hickey revealed that of 83 persons killed in automobile accidents last year, 70 were pedestrians, 50 of whom were struck down at night.

Referring to an editorial in the Evening American yesterday which advocated such a plan, the commissioner said:

"It certainly would be a good idea to paint safety lanes on practically every intersection in Boston!

"Motorists are becoming more and more indifferent to the pedestrian and something ought to be done about it.

"Mayor Tobin has shown great interest in the problem of crosswalks. He has consistently emphasized the need of pedestrian lanes near schools, churches and playgrounds. He has done his best to cooperate and our commission is striving to educate both motorists and pedestrian.

"The most dangerous threat to the pedestrian today is the increasing disregard of motorists for the pedestrian at the intersection. And by far the most dangerous motorist of all is the one who darts out of line and races up to a street corner. Every time he does it he's playing with murder!"

He added that about 500 intersections are now equipped with safety lanes and that last year the mayor approved the purchase of a modern compressing machine which can, semi-automatically, paint and re-touch safety lanes in 60 per cent less time.

Auto Fatality Accents Need of Safety Lanes

Need of safety lanes at Boston traffic intersections was tragically emphasized today by death of one aged South End woman and severe injury to her sister. They were hit by an auto in Huntington ave. at Copley sq.

The fatally injured victim, Mrs. Rose Boldridge, 77, of Columbus sq., died at City Hospital.

Her sister, Miss Mae Bahr, 60, of the same address, is near death with both legs fractured and a possible fracture of the skull.

Police said the auto was driven by Leo Santamiello of Tappan st., Brookline. He was held on a technical charge of manslaughter.

2 Brothers Trapped by Cupid Confess Holdups in Roxbury

Two South Boston brothers, traced when one of them filed marriage intentions with a pretty, 19-year-old Roxbury sweetheart, were captured at gun-point today and held as the handkerchief bandits accused in a recent series of Roxbury, Dorchester and South End holdups.

The arrested men, James P. Sullivan, 23, and John J. Sullivan, 20, of Knowlton st., South Boston, allegedly confessed eight specific robberies and said there were many others they couldn't remember but would admit if they were listed for them.

Seizure of the brothers today came in a lodging house in Warrenton st., South End.

Police said James, the elder, escaped a previous trap set for him at the home of his bride-to-be in Cliff st., Roxbury.

DIVES FROM WINDOW

He dove headlong from a second-story window there and fled in a rain of bullets, according to officers who surrounded the house but failed to nab him.

The fiancee, dark-haired attractive young Miss Helen Granger, was questioned at police headquarters but was cleared of any guilty knowledge of alleged criminal activities of the Sulivan brothers.

She was present today when the arrested men were placed in a police lineup. She was fully exonerated, however.

Police Sergt. Joseph F. Condon, whose clever detective work led to trapping the brothers through James' marriage license application, took the alleged confessions of the accused young men before witnesses and stenographers at police headquarters.

CRIMES THEY ADMIT

James, according to police, admitted five Boston holdups and one in Framingham.

John, the younger brother, admitted two holdups, one in Columbia rd., Dorchester, the other in Warren st., Roxbury, Sergt. Condon said.

According to the sergeant, the brothers said they threw away two guns in South Boston after James' narrow escape from the trap laid for him at his sweetheart's Roxbury home.

Two .32 caliber revolvers, badly rusted from lying in the rain, were found near Thomas park, South Boston, the area named by the Sullivans.

ONE UNDER BED

They allegedly admitted these were the weapons they used in many of the recent holdups.

When the Warrenton st. lodging house was raided today by Sergt. Condon and Detectives Salvatore D'Natale, Stanley Slack and William Crowley, one of the brothers was in bed, the other hiding under the bed, the officers said.

According to Sgt. Condon, a watch identified as stolen in one recent holdup was found in James Sullivan's pocket.

Also seized in the South End room were several suitcases filled with clothing and other articles allegedly taken from robbery victims.

HELEN KAPLAN, BLONDE SINGER
Seeks $50,000 Damages in Suffolk Court

SINGER, LEG LOST IN CRASH, SEEKS $50,000

Details of an automobile accident during Christmas week in 1938, which caused amputation of a leg of Miss Helen G. Kaplan, 24, of Roxbury, blonde night club singer, were retold today in Suffolk Superior Court in suits totalling $70,000.

The girl, who was hailed again by night club patrons after months of hospitalization, seeks $50,000 damages from John J. Finnan of Codman Hill ave., Dorchester, a Boston College student, and his father, John H. Finnan, a member of the Boston fire department.

Miss Kaplan, who sings under the name of Helen Carroll, testified she was driving Finnan's machine on the Worcester turnpike when he grabbed her by the shoulders, causing the automobile to skid and overturn several times.

Miss Mabel Hyslop, 26, of Center st., Jamaica Plain, who was riding in the rear seat with Finnan, also claimed injuries and is suing for $20,000 damages.

Finnan testified he had borrowed his father's machine to drive to Holy Cross College, where he then was a student. He said that on the return trip, Miss Kaplan took the wheel and he sat in the rear seat. He denied he had grabbed the girl and testified she had failed to make a sharp curve.

Stay Out of War, Dewey's Pledge

OGDEN, Utah, April 23 (INS)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York promised an enthusiastic crowd at Ogden that "the Republican party will turn the country around and keep us out of war."

The Republican candidate for the presidential nomination spoke informally in the railroad station waiting room after conferring briefly with party leaders.

"The New Deal managers stand astride the world scene and meddle where they have no concern; that is why I say, turn the country around from its march to the left," Dewey said.

RUNNELLS' PRESENTS REVEALED

AUGUSTA, Me., April 23—Allegedly using state money, William A. Runnells played the role of a big hearted Santa Claus to girl friends and associates during his eight years as state controller, investigators charged today.

The 45-year-old bachelor, who is accused of embezzling huge sums of state funds, set one woman up in business and gave another so many gowns she didn't know what to do with them, authorities said.

In the case of the latter girl friend, police added, she finally disposed of the surplus gowns by selling them at bargain prices.

Although Runnells' official salary called for $5200 a year, he gave away three times that amount in gifts each year, police said.

Miss Eloise Lawrence, 38, a $40-a-week secretary for the State Highway Commission and said to be Runnells' fiance, received diamond rings valued at more than $2000, a saddle horse, a gold-inlaid dinner set and considerable wearing apparel, investigators declared.

Runnells had been courting Miss Lawrence for about ten years, investigators said, but he did not confine his gifts to one woman.

He allegedly financed a friendship with the mystery blonde, known as Lady Bountiful by bellhops at a hotel in Old Orchard Beach. She is sought by investigators in efforts to trace the allegedly stolen state money, which now is estimated by auditors to total at least $100,000.

Dutch Gold Ship Docks in Hub

Gold valued at $4,000,000 was the principal cargo of the Dutch motorship Poelau Tello which arrived at the Army Base today after an uneventful trip from the Dutch East Indies, via Capetown, S. A.

Included in he. passenger list of 33 were diamond merchants, an airplane buying commission and a Rhodesian copper mine expert.

Officers of the ship were reluctant to discuss anything about the Dutch East Indies, recently mentioned in the news as a prize des ed by Japan.

The airplane commission is en route to Burbank, Cal., to take delivery of 16 Lockheed passenger planes for the South African Airlines.

The diamond merchants, who will reopen the House of Jewels at the World's Fair, reported Jewish refuges fortunate to have escaped their wor-torn countries were investing in diamonds.

Also docking today was the largest Greek merchant ship, the S. S. Elias G. Kiulukundis.

Youth Stabs 2 Girls In Battle Over Wife

LOS ANGELES, April 23 (AP)—Two girls, one the sister of Ralph Vaughn, University of Southern California basketball star, were stabbed with an ice-pick on the college campus last night by a man police reported was later captured by the athlete.

John A. Bertram, 25, was booked at university police station early today on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

NOT SERIOUS

The victims were Pauline Vaughn, 21, of Frankfort, Ind., and Peggy Glasheen, 21. Miss Vaughn was wounded in the shoulder, Miss Glasheen in the leg. Hospital attendants said neither injury appeared serious.

Det.-Lieut. W. A. Gilliland said the girls, employed at a coffee shop, were walking with Bertram's estranged wife, Ellen, when Bertram stepped from behind a hedge. They were wounded, Gilliland added, when they grappled with him.

Vaughn and other students, attending a night class in a nearby building, heard screams and ran to the scene. It was not until Bertram was subdued that Vaughn discovered one of the victims was his sister.

THRUST NOTE

Mrs. Bertram told Gilliland, when her husband accosted her he thrust a note into her hand. She said the first two sentences read:

"If you don't come with me I'll kill you and myself too. If you come along I won't harm you."

There was more, she added, but he seized it, tore it up, and drew the ice pick. The struggle followed.

Gilliland said a bottle of poison was found in Bertram's pocket. The officer claimed Bertram first declared he intended merely to frighten his wife, later admitted he intended to kill her, then take the poison himself.

Burrage Yacht Sale To Canada Revealed

Mrs. Alice H. Burrage, Back Bay society leader, today was revealed at Washington as the latest in a group of well known Americans who have sold their yachts to Canadians.

Mrs. Burrage is the widow of the late Albert Cameron Burrage, financier, famed polo player, and for years president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

The family is famous for cultivation of orchids and the orchid ball given in honor of their daughter, Alice C., years ago still is considred perhaps the most spectacular coming out party ever given in Boston.

Mrs. Burrage is the grandmother of Cynthia Burrage, No. 1 glamor debutante of the season.

Approval of the sale of her 260-foot, steel-hulled Aztec to Thomas H. P. Molson of Montreal was approved by the maritime commission, April 16. The application stated the purchaser was vice-president of Molson's brewery and that he intended to use the craft for pleasure purposes.

All of the many boats sold were purported to be put in use as pleasure craft but reports reaching Washington indicated they would be used by the Canadian government for strengthening Canada's coastal patrol.

More than 15 such craft have been transferred to Canadian registry within three months.

KELLY AGAIN SCORES GOVERNOR ON EL DEBT

Disagreeing with Gov. Saltstall's assertion that his office had no discretion in the matter, former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly today suggested holding up submission of the Boston Elevated deficit warrant of $2,?4,000 pending an investigation by the Boston Finance Commissin.

Kelly also called on the Governor to explain the predating and advance sale of State notes to Boston banks to obtain the funds needed to pay the El deficit.

"Why the haste, Your Excellency, in approving this loss which was made known to the public only four days ago?" Kelly asked. "Why should the State treasurer anticipate your approval of this alleged loss?"

Kelly pointed out that the five-man Boston Finance Commission is under control of the Governor and has already spent $14,000 investigating the Elevated loss. Mayor Tobin and the city council recently appropriated an additional $20,000 for further study of the matter, he added.

In his opinion, Kelly said, the Governor should neither submit the warrant to his Executive Council nor sign it if approved by that body until the Finance Commission and its investigators are questioned.

"With the tremendous power of the Governor's office there are many alternatives for him to follow," Kelly said.

"The Elevated's claimed loss cannot be paid without your signature and you should withhold it until you are certain this enormous loss for the past year of $2,?24,000 actually exists."

Pointing out that small business men who sell the State commodities must wait 30 days for their money, even after offering a discount, Kelly questioned what he terme dto be the rush to pay the Elevated.

Kelly recommended that the State Auditor audit the books of the Elevated and make a public report before the Governor allow the loss to be paid.

He maintained that the burden of proving the loss remains with El officials and the Governor should make them prove it.

Bay State Division To Be Streamlined

In order to meet conditions of modern warfare, the 26th Division, Massachusetts National Guard, soon is to be streamlined, it was learned today.

The four infantry regiments are expected to be reshuffled into three with probable elimination of either the 182d Infantry from Middlesex County or the 181st from Worcester.

Radcliffe Girls Elect Class, Club Officers

Elections of officers of all classes and clubs at Radcliffe College are being held this week, and first results were announced today.

Officers of the class of 1941, who will take office in the fall, are:

Betty-Jane Hallstrom of Philadelphia, president; Louise Blanchard of Belmont, vice-president; Caroline A. Wood of Cambridge, secretary; Ruth Jones of Schenectady, N. Y., treasurer, and Martha Field of Barrington, R. I., representative to the student council.

Officers of the class of 1942: Louise Sullivan, West Roxbury, president; Magdalen Clarke, New York city, vice-president; Bette Boyer, Minneapolis, secretary; Mary Elinor Gibb, Westmount, P. Q., treasurer, and Elizabeth Meek, Providence, representative.

For the class of 1943: Helen Ross of Lincoln, president; June Threewit, Chestnut Hill, vice-president; Louise Bowler, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., secretary, and Harriet Rodebush, Urbana, Ill., treasurer.

Dormitory officers, chairman and secretary of the board of hall presidents, the Choral Society and the Idler Dramatic Society will be chosen tomorrow, Thursday and Friday.

Red Caps Oppose New Rail Wage Plan

The Red Cap porters throughout New England today opposed through counsel the new 10-cent piece rate which railroad officials announced will go into effect at stations on Sunday.

Under the new plan, the railroads will collect 10 cents for each article carried and pay porters weekly salaries. George E. Roewer, counsel for the porters, asserted that the new system violates the contract employes now have with the railroads.

Third Term Feeler Seen in F. D. Tour

By Associated Press

Primary election voting in Pennsylvania, with interest centering on the efforts of Senator Joseph Guffey to win Democratic renomination, was accompanied today by these developments on the national political scene:

1—President Roosevelt disclosed plans for what the White House called a non-political 21-day trip across the country in June, at a time when the Republican convention will be in session.

2—Sen. Downey (D.) of California, joined anti-third term ranks in the midst of a California primary fight among delegate slates supporting Mr. Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner.

3—Sen. Norris (Independent) of Nebraska, a third term advocate, told reporters that he was "afraid" the President would not run again. "I think he would like to retire and get a rest," Norris said.

4—Republican Chairman John Hamilton proposed that members of the party's platform committee meet well in advance of the June 24 convention to begin their complicated task.

"Such a course of action," Hamilton said, "would permit a more orderly consideration of those matters which will ultimately be incorporated within the platform and otherwise would be generally helpful.

GUFFEY FIGHTS FOR TOGA

Today's Pennsylvania balloting held no special significance from a national standpoint, although convention delegates were being chosen by both Democrats and Republicans. President Roosevelt was unopposed in the Democratic preference primary, which does not bind the delegation. The Republican ballot bore the name of no presidential aspirant.

Senator Guffey was opposed for renomination by Walter A. Jones, Pittsburgh oil man. Both are New Dealers. David Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, and several of his aides are backing Jones.

In the Republican senatorial primary, Jay Cooke of Philadelphia, the state organization's choice, was running against Albert B. Ladner, Philadelphia attorney, and John A. Derenzo, Altoona newspaper publisher.

Legion Sponsors Patriotic Meet

The American Legion, department of Massachusetts, will sponsor an Americanization meeting of all faiths next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Hotel Statler.

Aiding the legionnaires are fraternal, civic and religious organizations, all of whom are pledged to combat all forms of subversive activities aimed at the peace and form of American government.

Included among the scheduled speakers are Gov. Saltonstall, Walter F. Downey, state commissioner of education; Department Commander Thomas A. Quinn, the Rev. George P. O'Connor, the Rev. Samuel D. Lindsay and Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams. The meeting will be open to the public.

Stork on Way To Doris Duke And Cromwell

NEW YORK, April 23 (INS)—"Cholly Knickerbocker," society editor of the New York Journal-American, said in an exclusive column today that Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, the former Doris Duke, wife of the returing U. S. minister to Canada, expects a baby next August.

The column added:

"The Cromwells were married in February, 1935, and Doris, I happen to know, has always wanted children. She hopes the expected newcomer will be a boy, while 'Jimmie' is said to favor a future debutante."

Cromwell, in an Ottawa announcement yesterday, resigned his diplomatic post effective May 21 in order to begin his New Jersey campaign for the U. S. senatorship now held by W. Warren Barbour, who will oppose him in the November election.

MRS. FARLEY AGAINST JIM AS A CANDIDATE

By JANE COCHRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 23—The most loyal of the host of admirers of James A. Farley is the one most opposed to his presidential aspirations—his wife.

"Frankly, I'm against it," Mrs. Farley said today.

"I want him to retire from public life."

Tall and gracious, with a ready Irish wit and a charming smile, Mrs. Farley has never taken an active part in her husband's political life. She has a frankly expressed dislike of Washington, going there only on occasions demanded by her husband's position.

WON'T AID CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Farley has no house in Washington. When occasion demands she entertains in a hotel. She is fond of occasional nights out at the theater and a supper club but seldom appears at official functions.

Mrs. Farley will not depart from her custom and take part in the campaign of the Postmaster-General for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I will not take part in the campaign," she said. "I have never taken any part in any of the political angles of the public life of my husband, and I don't expect to."

A modest woman, Mrs. Farley avoids publicity, observing:

"Any publicity about me is too premature in every way . . . There's no reason for it.

"Everything that can be written about me has already been written."

CHILDREN AGAINST PLAN

When asked whether her husband consulted her about campaign details or discussed his speeches with her, she said:

"He talks to me about his speeches and discusses them with me but he doesn't particularly consult with me.

"If he had listened to my advice he wouldn't have been in politics the last eight years."

Daughter Ann shares Mrs. Farley's views. She's simply tired of not seeing enough of her father and she wants him home, not in the White House.

The other Farley children, Betty, in college, and James A., Jr., at boarding school, also have no desire to move to Washington.

The feelings of Mrs. Farley and the three children on the matter are really definite—so definite that each day they say the rosary and ask that Farley will not be elected to the highest office in the gift of the American people.

Wind, Flood Repairs Give N. E. Huge Task

New England residents tackled a million-dollar repair job today as the three-day northeast storm and four record high tides left scenes of widespread devastation.

In the Hough's Neck and Adams shore sections of Quincy and at Winthrop and Hull, emergency crews began patching wrecked roads, because of the concern felt over fire hazards.

Huge water-filled holes and tons of debris will impede fire apparatus, officials fear, and residents of the stricken areas were urged to use precaution until their streets are passable.

At the same time, workmen drove to mend shattered sea walls in half dozen exposed shore communities. More flooding is expected during high tide periods until the gaps are filled.

Water still covered several sects in the Kenberma flats section of Hull today and swollen water Boston rivers continued to transform lowlands into large lies.

Cloudy conditions, with occasional appearances of a warm ring sun, were predicted for today.

Observers foresee a warmer, ter day tomorrow for thousands of property owners who will be busy repairing storm-battered cottages.

QUINCY LOSS $100,000

Damage to streets, bridges, sea walls and homes in Quincy may exceed $100,000, officials estimated. Another $15,000 will probably be required to clear and mend damaged property in Wollaston under the jurisdiction of the metropolitan police, according to Capt. Joseph P. F. Rooney of the Blue Hills division.

Serious undermining of walls and boulevards at Revere will cost $15,000, it was estimated. Long sections of Quincy Shore drive were also shattered by the terrific surf.

Maine officials reported damage of $150,000 at Eastport, Lubec and Quoddy, where a 30-foot tide isolated the communities at the height of the storm.

RUSH AID TO QUODDY

Boston Coast Guard headquarters dispatched the patrol boat Travis to Quoddy when the station there was cut off. Officers of the vessel reported all residents safe.

Wharves, canning factories and fishing boats were wrecked by the surf.

Equally hard hit was Hampton Beach, N. H., where property owners figured the repair bill may reach $125,000. The surf ripped through sea walls at many points and destroyed the parking areas near the Casino.

Waves pounded the Hampton Beach police station and weakened the building. Water poured across the boulevard, filling hundreds of cottages.

Similar damage was caused at Old Orchard Beach, Me. Six cottages, undermined by the surf, toppled into the sea. Another was saved from the waves when a group of men tied it to a tree.

So great was the force of the water that at Nantasket Beach the elements accomplished a task which engineers had tried unsuccessfully for 13 years—to float the schooner Nancy, driven ashore in a similar storm in 1937. The craft was moved a quarter of a mile down the shore.

State police watched all Massachusetts rivers today after receiving word from New Hampshire that melting snow may swell the Connecticut and Merrimack. No immediate danger exists, however, observers said.

Maine highway officials and railroad maintenance men expressed apprehension over the threat of floods in the Pine Tree state, where many streams are still clogged with snow and ice.

DENTISTS DISAGREE ON THUMB-SUCKING

If little Willie sucks his thumb, forget about it.

Dr. Samuel J. Lewis of the University of Detroit, attending the convention of Massachusetts dentists in Hotel Statelet today gave this advice.

But, Dr. Oscar L. Perrault of Hudson, declared the habit is one to be avoided as it might lead to all sorts of imperfections in teeth development.

Thus, one of the questions closest to a mother found the experts divided.

"It is not as dangerous as once thought," said Dr. Lewis during informal debate. "Mechanical methods, such as thumb cups and braces, are liable to produce worse results than the child's habit of chewing on the thumb."

The children generally break themselves of the habit and any "mal-occlusions" in the structure of the set of teeth usually disappear, Dr. Lewis added.

But Dr. Perrault said there are cases where children as old as 12 years suck their thumbs and, despite all treatment, have been unable to break themselves of the habit.

In that lies a definite danger to teeth and a problem in orthodontia to straighten the child's teeth, he said.

A heavy registration was reported at the opening with expectations of a registration of 3500 before the four-day convention closes. Elected president for the coming year was Dr. George Cowles Brown of Worcester.

Report Franco May Visit Rome Soon

ROME, April 23 (INS)—General Francisco Franco, the Spanish dictator, may visit Rome soon, it was reported today.

Rumors that Premier Mussolini would visit Chancellor Hitler remained without any authoritative substantiation. It was recently reported that Hitler had sought to enlist Franco's support of Germany in the European war and that Il Duce was asked to act as go-between.

Doctor Is Fined In Surgery Case

The eloquent plea of counsel and the presence of 25 prominent North Shore physicians ready to testify as character witnesses, won leniency today in Middlesex Superior Court for Dr. Anthony P. Carogana, former Chelsea school physician, convicted of illegal surgery.

Judge Frederick W. Fosdick, after hearing Atty. J. Paul Keefe's plea for his client, withheld a jail sentence and imposed a fine of $2000. Then 25 other physicians proved their faith in Dr. Carogana by jointly subscribing the amount of the fine.

Also convicted with Dr. Carogana as an accessory was Mrs. Olga S. Crawford, a Malden nurse, who was fined $200.

Both were found guilty by a jury two weeks ago of complicity in an illegal operation on a girl now living in Green Harbor. The operation was performed two years ago in a Malden home.

VOTE NO ON PROBE OF BEANO

There'll be no probe of beano — the game of chance—in Boston.

This was the decision of the Boston city council, which brought defeat to a five-week campaign by Councilor Perley Dyar Chase to have a city-wide beano investigation by the Boston Finance Commission.

During a stormy and unruly session, Chase's order was removed from the table by a 6 to 4 vote, with many of the councilors dodging the order, but finally voting 13 to 1 to kill it.

A second order by Chase, seeking to learn the names of organizations running beano in 1939 and also who got the profits, was tabled.

The Council also voted to ask the public works department to establish a fee of 25 cents for motorists who are non-residents of Boston for passing through the Sumner traffic tunnel.

They voted to ask the street commission to name a square for a woman World War veteran for the first time, the junction of Freeland and Standard sts., Mattapan, to be known as Mary Doherty sq. She was a nurse.

The Council also voted to ask the library trustees to reopen the branch library at Tremont and Ruggles sts., Roxbury, closed four years ago.

In his first opinion since becoming acting corporation counsel, Wilfred J. Doyle notified the Council he did not believe trustees of the White Fund could use funds for a municipal gymnasium sought by South Boston residents.

The Council passed a resolution asking Massachusetts Congressmen to seek more WPA allotments for Massachusetts because of an anticipated layoff of 12,000 on May 1.

They gave approval of the reappointment of 100 constables who serve civil process. Councilor Charles I. Taylor warned the dozen constables working at present that if they tried to collect taxes for years prior to 1935 the council would not renew their commissions next year.

Allies to Blockade Air Lanes to Reich

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—Concerned by indications that large quantities of contraband goods are being shipped into Germany by neutral airlines, France and Great Britain are studying a plan to extend their sea blockade of the Reich to the air.

Disclosure that some form of "aerial policing" is contemplated was made by France's blockade minister, Georges Monnet, who announced that he had submitted a plan of action to R. H. Cross, British minister of economic warfare.

Monnet did not divulge details of his proposal, but he said the volume of air traffic passing through Lisbon, Portugal, was the subject of special attention by the Allies.

Lisbon is the European terminus of America's transatlantic clippers, which recently cancelled intermediate stops at Bermuda after British authorities there had subjected air mail cargoes to censorship.

"Too many neutral airplanes, or airplanes of neutral appearance take foreign exchange and merchandise to Germany," Monnet said in disclosing the Allied intentions. "Otherwise the Lisbon airport would not collect each day a million (apparently francs) in customs duties."

Monnet said "true neutrals will not be troubled" by the proposed air blockade.

"What we wish and must halt," he declared, "is aerial contraband, at least by commercial airlines."

His disclosure came amid increased aerial activity along the Western Front and over French territory behind the lines.

SEARCH SKIES

Anti-aircraft batteries in the Paris area went into action last night when the sound of airplane motors was heard, and blazed away for 15 minutes as searchlights stabbed the skies.

No air-raid alarm was sounded in the capital, but civilians in northwest France were driven to cover for 50 minutes when sirens screamed a warning. The alarm passed without incident.

Military authorities, meanwhile, announced that a French air patrol had downed another Nazi plane on the western front yesterday, bringing to 12 and possibly 15 the number of enemy aircraft destroyed in the last three days.

On the home front police announced the arrest of 74 members of the banned Communist party accused of spreading propaganda in national defense centers. Authorities also seized a quantity of printing equipment and copies of a clandestine publication, "The Voice of the Factories."

Oslo remained quiet, and some of the people who fled before the German occupation returned to their homes. German quarters said that troop reinforcements were arriving daily.

Shirley Fetes Birthday on Run

HOLLYWOOD, April 23 (AP)—Shirley Temple, curly haired child screen star, reached her 11th birthday anniversary today, quite the sophisticated little lady, but still kid enough to want to sit down and eat ice cream and cake with overalled workmen on a movie set.

As for observing the occasion in high style, like some little rich girl might do, Shirley would have none of that.

Instead, she is so busy on her latest picture, "Young People," that she planned to interrupt her work routine only long enough to share refreshments with her co-workers.

Call Swiss Youths To Aid in Farming

BERNE, Switzerland, April 23 (AP)—Switzerland's Generalissimo Henri Guisan today launched an elaborate "Youth Organization" plan with a manifesto urging all boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 21 to devote the summer to helping peasant and mountaineer families whose men have been mobilized.

The calling of 500,000 men to the colors took tens of thousands of farmers from their fields.

CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY—After receiving their caps in traditional candlelight ceremony at New England Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing, Eleanor Sowle of New Bedford; Hallie Pike, Charlemont; Helen Chase, North Dartmouth; Jane Cole, Attleboro; Edith Hambly, North Dartmouth, and Lucille Sullivan of Turner's Falls, light their candles. Twenty-six student nurses received their caps at the ceremony.

26 N. E. Girls Win Caps in Nursing School

Twenty-six freshmen representing all six New England States received their caps at exercises at the school of nursing of the New England Deaconess Hospital.

According to Miss Marjorie B. Davis, principal of the school, the 26 took a total of 189 examinations without a single failure.

Massachusetts girls receiving their caps were: Winifred L. Anderson, Malden; Helen F. Chase, North Dartmouth; Janie G. Christie, Plymouth; Jane Cole, Attleboro; Edith B. Hambly, North Dartmouth; Muriel M. Howarth, Swansea; Shirley E. Hehl, Northfield; Mary E. Kidd, Fall River; Hallie A. Pike, Charlemont; Ruth T. Pike, Rowley; Ruth Preston, Medford; Carmen Quint, Beverly; Eleanor F. Sowle, New Bedford; Lucille E. Sullivan, Turners Falls; Marjorie F. White, Lawrence; Roberta Wilder, Medford.

From Maine: Eleanor L. Briscoe, Orono; Lucille Davis, South Paris; Paulyne F. Steen, Patten; Frances P. Willey, Waterville and Priscilla G. Archibald of Monticello.

Others were Emily J. Davies of Gales Ferry, Ct.; Mary L. Morrison of Laconia and Thelma C. Webster of Lebanon, New Hampshire; Dorothy A. Slater, Springfield, Vermont, and Hazel L. Williams of Tiverton, R. I.

before her marriage and adopted of Broadway's most striking beauties. She had gone to New York from Swainsboro, Ga., five years the name of Duval for professional purposes.

Young Curley, now 25, was courting her while he was a student at Georgetown. She gave up her dancing career after their marriage.

They were welcomed at the Jamaicaway home of the then Gov. Curley. Paul, who had been road secretary with the Boston Braves for a time, took up radio announcing as a career. Soon there were reports that the Curleys had agreed to disagree, but these were denied until last spring, when the first real separation occurred. Then came a reconciliation and a second disagreement.

British Closing Trap On Nazis in Norway

driven off by British troops lining the road from Steinkjer.)

Reports received in Stockholm stated that Steinkjer, where British troops arrived several days ago, was bombed and in flames.

Despite German air raids which left at least five towns in partial ruins, Allied and Norwegian troops were reported advancing together in the Trondheim, Narvik and Hamar sectors.

5000 NAZIS TRAPPED

British and Norwegian forces closed in on nearly 5000 German troops trapped at Narvik, and more British warships steamed into Narvik fjord and turned their heavy artillery upon the town, ready to unleash the full power of their guns upon it.

In the Trondheim sector Allied troops reached Stoeren, 25 miles south of the German-occupied port, where attempts were under way to trap and choke off another 5000 Germans.

Heavy fighting was reported on both sides of Trondheim as swarms of German warplanes went into action, raining explosives on British positions and rail and road communication routes.

On the wavering fighting front in the interior of Norway, the British claimed capture of Lillehammar, 25 miles north of Hamar.

(Latest advices from Berlin claimed Lillehammar was still in German hands.)

In Stockholm, however, the Norwegian legation was forced to revise its previous statements and admit that Hamar and Elverum were still in possession of the Germans. The legation denied, nevertheless, that the Germans held Lillehammar.

German air raids burned or partially destroyed Namsos, Elverum, Andalsnes, Steinkjar and the Vardalsoeres junction.

(Berlin also announced that Dombas, railroad fork where Capt. Robert M. Losey, American air attache, was killed by a German bomb splinter, was destroyed).

British warship concentrations increased all along the Norwegian coast in preparation for further landings and attacks and the civilian population of Narvik was ordered to evacuate the nothern iron ore port prior to the British naval bombardment.

The anticipated shelling of the town was designed to "soften" German resistance prior to an expected British attempt to storm and capture Narvik.

VILLAGE DESTROYED

The village of Gratiangen, 25 miles north of Narvik, where still more German troops were billeted, was reported burned down by Norwegian troops.

Germans at the village were forced to seek refuge in nearby farm hourses where they now are reported surrounded by Norwegian troops and harossed by snipers.

One sniping Norwegian lieutenant claimed that he had accounted for 17 Germans.

Several houses were destroyed in a German raid on Harstad, site of the earliest British troop landings.

Brisk skirmishes also were reported from Melhus, about 15 miles south of Trondheim.

Britain Waits 5 Big Warships

LONDON, April 23 (INS)—Britain's naval fleet will be strengthened shortly by five new 35,000-ton battleships which now are undergoing secret tests, it was disclosed today.

The new vessels are the King George V, Prince of Wales, Duke of York, Beatty and Jellicoe.

Revelation that these mighty vessels soon will be added to Britain's powerful battle line bore out the recent forecast of first Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill that Britain soon "will have in commission five new battleships."

"Alkalize" upsetting stomach acids this amazing Phillips' way

I'LL BE A WRECK—TOMORROW
NO, DO THIS AS SOON AS YOU GET READY FOR BED—
1.
2.
Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water.
You'll feel wonderful in the morning and do a swell job.

Wake up clear-headed and peppy!...no "morning-after" acid upsets or headache.

If you over-indulge—eat or drink too much—stay out all hours . . . don't "pay the piper" in the morning. Instead of a session of OVER-ACIDITY of the stomach that can get you really down and spoil the whole next day, do this:

Follow the routine in the pictures here . . . with Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia . . . one of the most remarkable stomach alkalizers known. Just two tablespoonfuls at bedtime and two in the morning with your orange juice . . . that's all.

But the results: You'll be on top of the world when you wake up! No nausea, no terrible acid upsets. It's wonderful. Try this remarkable method. See for yourself what it does.

You can get Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in either liquid or tablet form at any drug store. Ask for it by its full name and check the words "Genuine Phillips' " on the blue package.

BRITAIN SEEKS JAPAN AID IN EAST BLOCKADE

TOKYO, April 23 (AP)—A severe diplomatic battle is raging behind the scenes here between Great Britain and Germany, a reliable source disclosed today, each side seeking to enlist Japan's "benevolent neutrality" toward the European war.

This informant said that the British had "hinted at amazing concessions" in an effort to obtain Japan's consent to intensification of the allied blockade in the Pacific.

The major objective there would be to prevent war materials—American oil, copper, tin and rubber from the East Indies—from reaching Vladivostok for shipment over the trans-Siberian railway to Germany.

Reports reaching Japan said that Vladivostok is choked with incoming cargoes consigned to Germany, that warehouses are overflowing and docks piled high.

It was said that an average of 1500 metric tons (1653 tons) of carbon daily is licensed for transshipment.

American copper imports at the Russian port from the outbreak of the war until March 31 totaled 70,000 metric tons (77,140 tons), according to Japanese statistics, whereas formerly Vladivostok received an average of only 6000 metric tons yearly. Imports of oil and tin have increased similarly, it was said.

The informant disclosed that the latest British move came in the form of a proposal to conclude a trade agreement whereby Japan's already heavily favorable balance would be substantially increased through greater British purchases of Japanese preserved foodstuffs.

U. S. Officials See Jap Trend Tense

WASHINGTON, April 23 (INS)—Administration officials declared today that they do not regard war between the United States and Japan as "inevitable," but admitted that relations between the two countries are dangerously tense.

The question of war was raised yesterday when Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig, testifying before a congressional committee, said:

"I can't see how we can avoid being forced ultimately into a war by the trend of events in the Far East."

Both Secretary of State Hull and Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations, were prompt in stating that Taussig expressed only his personal feelings and did not speak for the administration.

compared with $236,000,000 in the first year of the World War.

Actual expenditures last year totalled $7,267,492,000 as against the emergency budget estimate of $7,732,000,000. Of the total spent, Sir John said, $4,196,000,000 was produced from revenue and $3,072,000,000 from borrowing.

But, he added, the national debt now stands at the colossal figure of $35,724,000,000.

Sir John said the government would take "most severe measures against tax-dodgers. In this connection, the chancellor promised "effective and appropriate action" to ensure that the war does not end with a minority of individuals in possession of "colossal fortunes."

a Norwegian patrol boat destroyed. It said one British bomber was shot down in an unsuccessful attempt to raid the Nazi air base at Aalborg, Denmark.

Although the British bombarded Narvik, it declared, there still was no allied attempt to land in the far northern iron ore port.

German troops were said to have advanced beyond Aamot and Lillehammer, north of Oslo, and about 60 miles northeast of Trondheim, cutting connecting roads leading south from the allied landing point at Namsos.

The regular German communique follows:

"The English yesterday attempted no landing in the Narvik region occupied by German troops. English naval forces, however, again bombed the city and port.

"German troops in the Trondheim region, supported by light naval forces, pushed forward up to 100 kilometers (about 60 miles) in a northeastern direction, thrust back the enemy there and cut connecting roads leading southward from Namsos.

"One Norwegian patrol boat was destroyed in Vaksdal fjord. In regions between Bergen and Stavanger fighting with scattered Norwegian troops units is continuing. Numerous guns fell into German hands.

"North of Oslo German troops continued to advance beyond Aamot and Lillehammer despite enemy street barricades.

"Fighting units of the air force participated in the fight.

SWEDEN BARS WAY TO NAZIS

STOCKHOLM, April 23 (INS)—Transit of troops or war materials through Swedish territory to Norway by belligerent powers will be prohibited, the Swedish government announced today.

The declaration on this point was made after foreign rumors spread regarding alleged movements of foreign war materials through Sweden.

Germans May Ask Road Through Sweden

LONDON, April 23 (INS) Indications that the German minister to Stockholm shortly will renew German requests for authorization to send military supplies to Norway across Swedish territory were reported by the London Daily Telegraph today.

BERLIN, April 23 (INS)—German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop today handed the Reich's regrets to Sweden's protest against aerial violations of her territory to the Swedish minister to Berlin.

Nazi Governor For Norway?

BERLIN, April 23 (INS)—The first definite indication of Germany's future plans with regard to Norway came today with news that Josef Terboven, hard-fisted young Nazi Gauleiter of Essen province, had left for Oslo.

According to reliable indications, Terboven will establish in Norway the same sort of German administration that prevailed in Belgium from 1914 to 1918, when a Belgian civil governor functioned alongside the German military command.

Anything in the nature of a protectorate is not planned for the moment, it was understood. But Terboven probably will be named civil governor, thereby removing all administrative and civilian tasks from the shoulders of Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, German commander, permitting the latter to concentrate on military operations.

3 Nations Probe Death of Losey

STOCKHOLM, April 23 (INS)—Three nations today investigated the death of Capt. Robert M. Losey, United States military air attache, by a German bomb splinter Sunday near the Norwegian town of Dombas.

As preparations were made to give the Iowan a funeral with full military honors, the State Department in Washington requested a full report on his death, while Norwegian and German authorities offered aid in the inquiry.

Losey's body is now en route to Stockholm. It will be sent to America for interment.

CLEVER DUTCH DEFENSES MAKE NAZI BLITZKRIEG IMPOSSIBLE

By FRAZIER HUNT

International News Service War Correspondent

AMSTERDAM, April 23 (INS)—Fired into action by recent Scandinavian events, tens of thousands of extra laborers have been working night and day the last two weeks to finish the final reinforcements of Holland's vast system of water and cement defenses.

To the old slogan, "they shall not pass," the Dutch have added a new phrase, "we shall not be surprised."

Tonight I returned from a trip with a general staff officer that took in a considerable part of this extraordinary water line. There is nothing comparable to it in the world. And it is fully formed and on the alert.

In various sections I crouched in shellproof machine-gun nests or on top of well camouflaged anti-tank-gun steel and cement emplacements, and looked out over miles of inundated country.

The depth of this water varies from a few inches to four or five feet. Underneath the water is a foot of slimy mud with concealed obstructions.

For man, beast or motorized vehicle to try to cross these drowned swamps is all but impossible. They are too shallow for boats, but deep enough to deny access to men or tanks or cavalry. And the depth of the water can be changed instantly by a great system of intricate waterworks. Behind them lie a maze of machine guns, cannon and the most modern weapons of slaughter.

There is not the slightest possibility of a repetition of the tragedy of Denmark and Norway—or even of some lightning invasion such as overran Poland.

CANNOT BE SURPRISED

Holland cannot be surprised nor can she quickly be overrun. To penetrate these series of defenses, to wallow through the shallow mud flats and flooded fields in the face of murderous fire from thousands of hidden and protected gun nests, might actually prove impossible.

She has made ample provision against sudden air attacks. As General Van Voorst Tot Voorst, commander-in-chief of the field army, pointed out to me, the fact that Holland is small and has her army fully mobilized and set in defense positions makes it impossible to smother her in an air blitzkrieg.

I talked to many soldiers from the commander-in-chief of the field army to a sturdy farmer boy squatting on guard in an anti-tank gun nest.

There was no difference in the stern, cool determination of the highest and the lowest.

Neither the commander-in-chief nor this boy soldier—nor the 400,000 other Dutch soldiers standing guard—like the idea of invasion or intrusion. They will fight anyone at any time who breaks their neutrality.

WEST FRONT QUIET

PARIS, April 23 (INS)—"Nothing to report," the French war communique stated today.

Pro-Nazis Held In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, April [illegible] (AP)—Milan Acimovic, former Yugoslav minister of the interior, today was restricted to his residence as authorities pressed a campaign against associates of former Premier Milan Stoyadinovic, who has been interned on charges of pro-Nazi activities in Yugoslavia.

Acimovic, regarded as a Stoyadinovic lieutenant, is expected to be taken under guard to a village in southeastern Bosnia.

Stoyadinovic's brother, Dragomir Stoyadinovic, an editor, was jailed on charges of publishing reports damaging the security of the state.

Authorities, however, said the accusations against him were not linked directly with the plot to overthrow the government charged against his brother.

Canadian Units Parade Near London

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—Units of the first division of the Canadian overseas force paraded and maneuvered near London today before Canadian Defense Minister Norman Rogers who reached London last week.

Asked whether it would make any difference to what battlefront the Canadians were summoned Rogers said that "Canadian troops have always gone to work where they were most needed and where they could make the greatest contribution."

Urges Britain Give U. S. Indies Free Port

LONDON, April 23 (INS)—Victor Cazelet, conservative member of Parliament, recommended that Britain offer the United States a free port with full sovereign rights in the West Indies, in a speech at Sevenoaks, Kent, Cazelet said.

"I am not at all sure . . . that America would not like a free port available to her navy rather nearer South America than she has today."

The port, he said, could be given as part payment of the British war debt.

POLITICS ON PARADE

By Barrington Welles

Smiling Jim Farley, Democratic chieftain and aspirant for Presidential honors, spent a pleasant week-end in Boston, his second visit to Massachusetts within a month, and in return for the eulogies heaped upon him by leaders of the Bay State Democracy, he presented his party with a cross-word puzzle which is intriguing the rank and file of the party throughout the nation.

Ostensibly, his speech at the testimonial gathering at the Copley-Plaza, broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup, was the first in his campaign for his party's presidential nomination. Democrats here and everywhere yes, and Republicans too—had expected an eye-opener from Farley, in the nature of a third term expose or an outright avowal of his own position.

As this is written, a bewildered electorate is trying to figure it all out. Farley overnight has become Political Puzzle No. 2. President Roosevelt, of course, holding first place.

MENTIONS HULL

Not only did the genial postal chief fail to mention his own candidacy or make any revelations regarding the intentions of "Boss" Roosevelt, although praising his policies, but also he indirectly gave to the nation the name of Secretary Cordell Hull to mull over as possible presidential timber, and left the impression he might be Hull's runner-up.

Among the many references he made to the great work being carried on by Secretary Hull, the following may denote why some political observers foresee a Hull-Farley ticket:

"I think the record of the present administration in keeping America out of war is remarkably outstanding. The President and Secretary Hull foresaw the situation long before many people wanted to face the ugly facts that war was inevitable . . . Because of that, the United States has to work constantly toward a world which will be at peace . . . We have made a beginning with the trade agreements which Secretary Hull has been negotiating. We have kept our communications through the Post Office Department freer than any other system in the world."

There's the Farley cross-word puzzle. Now try and figure it out.

Do not be surprised if Massachusetts delegates to the Republican National Convention openly espouse the Presidential candidacy of Tom Dewey immediately after next Tuesday's presidential primaries, despite the fact that the G.O.P. delegation will go unpledged.

Among those expected to climb aboard the Dewey bandwagon are Gov. Saltonstall, Cong. Joseph W. Martin and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. The reason for the predicted swing to Dewey is that his growing support challenges their leadership.

John W. Haigis of Greenfield, banker and former G.O.P. candidate for Governor, being urged by a host of friends and former supporters to contest with Henry Parkman, Jr., for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Reports from Western Massachusetts say that Haigis will soon make known his decision in the matter.

Certain Democratic leaders are complaining of the treatment they claim to be receiving at the Boston and State headquarters of the WPA, as well as from the NYA setup.

They are openly charging that Rep. Philip Bowker, Brookline Republican, has been accorded recognition at NYA headquarters which has been denied to Democrats. Also that the WPA set-up is too friendly with fotmer Corporation Counsel Henry Parkman, now a candidate for the G. O. P. nomination for U. S. Senator. William H. O'Brien, director of employment at the WPA offices in Oliver st., and John L. Fonovan, director of the NYA, are targets in the complaint.

Application forms for additional WPA funds to continue the survey of charitable trusts willed to the public, which has already resulted in uncovering bequests totalling $8,000,000 which have not been made available by trustees, are now being prepared in the office of Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever.

Dever has stated that a continued study of such bequests would undoubtedly uncover further trusts intended to promote recreational, educational and religious activities. Asst. Atty. Gen. Edward McPartlin has directed the survey over a period of four years and the results were embodied in a 225-page report recently released.

Dewey Roving N. Y. Emissary

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

District Attorney Dewey is proving that New York political jobs are roving scholarships.

The trouble with the Manhattan local boys who make good is that they won't stay local. LaGuardia, Walker and Hylan hung up nice mileage records for stock mayors under all weather conditions.

Last we heard of our district attorney he was exercising extra-territorial privileges in Los Angeles. We are just stating the facts before Chicago issues a communique claiming that New York's district attorney is on the lam.

"I Talked with God"

(Yes, I Did—Actually and Literally)

and as a result of that little talk with God some ten years ago, a strange Power came into my life. After 42 years of horrible, sickening, dismal failure and despair, everything took on a brighter hue. It's fascinating to talk with God, and it can be done very easily once you learn how. And when you do, well, there will come into your life the same dynamic Power which came into mine. The shackles of defeat which had bound me for years went a-shimmering — and now?—well—I own control of the largest circulating daily newspaper in my County, I own the largest office building in my City, I drive a beautiful limousine, I own my own home which has a lovely pipe-organ in it, and my family are abundantly provided for after I'm gone. And all this has been made possible because one day, ten years ago, I talked with God. Actually and literally talked with God.

You, too, may experience that strange Power which comes from talking with God, and when you do, if there is poverty, unrest, unhappiness, ill-health or despair in your life, well—this same God-Power is able to do for you what it did for me. No matter how useless or helpless your life seems to be—all this can be changed. For this is not a human power I'm talking about—it's a God-Power, and, of course, there can be no limitations to the God-Power, can there? Would you like to know how you too may talk with God? Would you like to know how this God-Power may come into your life as it came into mine? Then write a letter or post-card to Dr. Frank B. Robinson, Dept. 276, Moscow, Idaho, and full particulars of this strange Teaching will be sent you free of charge. But write now—while you are in the mood. It only costs one cent to find out, and this might easily be the best one cent you have ever spent. It may sound unbelievable—but it's true or I wouldn't tell you it was. Advt. A Glamor Touch To Graying Hair

It is now just about as easy to give a youthful touch to gray hair as it is to give it to your face. You can make up your hair to match your face. Simply follow the Barbo recipe below.

Get from your druggist one ounce bay rum; one-fourth ounce glycerine; one box Barbo Compound. Mix in half pint of water, or your druggist will mix for you at small cost. Simply comb into the hair several times a week. A rich, natural-looking color is imparted to gray, streaked hair. This color is easily maintained; will not wash out; rub off; or affect permanents. Does not stain the scalp; is not sticky or greasy and leaves the hair soft and glossy. Try the money-saving Barbo recipe today and see how many years younger you will look.

Rev. P. J. Walsh, Waltham, Dies

Rev. Peter J. Walsh, 73, first and only pastor of St. Charles' Church, Waltham, died today at St. Charles' rectory. He had been ill for two years.

Born in Ireland, Fr. Walsh came to Paterson, N. J., as a boy. He received his education at Seton Hall and at St. Charles College, Maryland. He was ordained in 1894.

For 14 years he was curate of St. Joseph's Church, West End. Then, in 1909, Cardinal O'Connell assigned him to Waltham, where there was need of a new parish to supplement the single existing parish, St. Mary's.

Fr. Walsh immediately began organizing St. Charles' parish. First building was the parish school, in 1911. The church building was started in 1915. First services in the party completed structure were in 1916.

Arrangements for Fr. Walsh's funeral have not been completed.

Plane Sales Abroad Seen U. S. War Peril

By COLE E. MORGAN
Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, April 23—Selling airplanes abroad while the American Army and Navy are far short of aircraft needed to meet the requirements of adequate national defense was characterized today in Congressional circles as an extremely dangerous policy.

One of the best posted men in Congress on the subject declared it was folly for the United States to sacrifice plane production for our own needs to supply belligerents abroad. He is Rep. Melvin J. Maas, (R.) of Minnesota, ranking minority member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, who has given years of close study to the subject of international relations and national defense.

Aside from the interference and delay in supplying the American Army and Navy with needed aircraft through the diversion of production facilities to filling foreign orders, Maas sees an even greater danger in paving the way for American involvement in the present European embroglio. He said:

"When the United States permits our factories to take orders from foreign governments that are at war or are threatened with involvement in war, we at once have a stake in that war.

"The next step will be that we will find ourselves financing the war and then, perhaps, becoming an active participant with our men and munitions.

PERIL TO SUPREMACY

"American aircraft factories today are turning out 400 to 500 planes a month. Proponents of the sales abroad idea claim that with the expansion to supply foreign orders provided this can be stepped up to 15,000 to 17,000 a year, but I have reason to believe that is a bit overestimated.

"Only a limited number of models are being made available for foreign purchase. Only a half dozen to a dozen plants will be filling these orders. Very little plant expansion will be required. The plants will need principally to readjust their equipment and operations and provide special dies and tools to turn out these limited models.

"The result, when these factories turn over to mass production, will be to freeze development of new and improved aircraft designs at the point where we start the mass production.

"The history of the development of aviation demonstrates that constant research and improvement in design is essential to aircraft progress. When we freeze development to provide mass production we drop just that far behind in air supremacy.

U. S. NEED GREAT

"We can utilize all the facilities we now have to build up our own requirements. The American Army should have not less than 7500 planes and the Navy at least 5000.

"The Navy now has built and authorized about 3000 and the Army about 2600 to 2800. We have less than half built or authorized that we need for ourselves. Supplying this need should be our first and only concern now.

"If we had to go to war today I doubt if we could put more than 1000 combat planes in the air.

"With our two-ocean frontier the Navy needs an adequate air support. A fleet without control of the air never can attain its full effectiveness. The same thing applies to an army. It must have control over the air where it is fighting.

"Without the covering protection of an auxiliary air force no navy, under present day methods of warfare, could successfully defend our extended coastlines.

"The Panama Canal cannot be properly defended except from the air. Its defense depends more on planes than on land batteries or sea craft. There are virtually no planes in the Canal Zone today.

"If we turn our aircraft factories over to allied contracts we then will have to make planes not only for them but for ourselves. But we can't make them for both. It would be far better for the Allies to expand their own facilities than to depend on our plants."

Death for Armed People in Norway

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—The German-controlled radio at Oslo was quoted today by Reuter's (British news agency) as saying all Norwegians and foreigners in German-occupied areas in Norway must surrender their arms by Sunday or face the death penalty.

Italian Chiefs Urge Duce to Stay Neutral

LONDON, April 23 (INS)—King Victor Emmanuel and other high-ranking Italians have urged Premier Mussolini during the past few days not to take Italy into the European war, the London Daily Mirror said today.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

EDITORS URGE U.S. KEEP OUT OF WAR

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 23—"Keep out of the war."

This is the sentiment of the people of the United States, as expressed today by the nation's foremost editors and publishers who are in New York attending the 51th annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association which opened in the Waldorf-Astoria, with more than 1000 attending.

Business conditions, according to many editors, are improving, although some of them reported "uncertainty."

Political discussions drew conflicting opinions, depending upon the editor interviewed. For example, James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, Independent, said:

"Cordell Hull and James A. Farley would be a knockout Democratic ticket."

On the other hand, Publisher Frank E. Gannett of Rochester, N. Y., a G. O. P. presidential aspirant, and Sen. Arthur Capper of Kansas both believe the Republican party can win in 1940, and both believe Franklin D. Roosevelt will run for a third term.

Thomas E. Dewey's strength as a Republican presidential possibility was generally conceded. But there were plenty of editors who still rate the chances of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan as strong.

Stahlman, a former president of the A. N. P. A., and one of the prominent editors of the South, said:

"I can't figure the Republican situation out. I hear a lot of talk at this convention about Wendell Willkie, the utilities man. He is a straight-shooting, straight-thinking business man."

Senator Capper said the Kansas delegation will go to the Republican convention in June virtually uninstructed.

He regarded Vandenberg, Dewey and Taft as the outstanding G. O. P. candidates at the present time.

"I think the Republicans can win in 1940," he said.

Concerning the Democratic situation, Capper said:

"I still think Roosevelt will be the nominee. I feel the Democrats will draft him, although I may be mistaken."

Publisher Gannett, who has been campaigning all over the country for months, said:

"Business is uncertain, marking time. It is leading a hand-to-mouth existence, waiting for developments that will restore confidence and make it possible for business to go ahead. If, in November, we terminate the New Deal and put in office a business administration that will encourage private enterprise, we will have the biggest boom in many years."

CATHOLIC WOMEN BAN WAR

Approval of America's neutrality and a warning that entering the European war would mean dictatorship in this country was voiced today before more than 2000 women delegates to the opening session of the League for Catholic Women at the Hotel Somerset.

Mrs. Vincent L. Greene, president of the organization that includes 300,000 Catholic women in the archdiocese, said:

"As American women we endorse the neutrality which Congress has declared and which President Roosevelt has advocated so strongly.

"This despite the emotionalism of people who refuse to face the stern reality that entering war can only mean for us the regimentation of industry and a dictatorship which will end our democratic form of government."

The annual two-day convention was begun by a mass of the Holy Ghost attended by delegates at St. Clement's Church, Boylston at, Back Bay, and by an invocation offered by Msgr. Michael J. Splaine.

Later features of the convention will include a conference on the "Peace of Christ," a luncheon and round table discussion on "What Catholic Women Should Read," at which Rev. William J. Daley will discuss books.

Tobacco Kept Seaman Alive

Half a package of chewing tobacco helped John Wolfe, 63-year-old fisherman, win a five-day fight against gales and seas in an open dory, he declared today at a Staten Island, N. Y., hospital.

Wolfe, whose battle with the sea, revealed him as the long-lost member of an Arlington family, was expected to be visited by his brothers and sisters as soon as they could make arrangements to go to New York. They had sought him ever since he left home six years ago.

"I happened to have that tobacco with me," he said. "That's all that kept me going, and without it I don't know what I'd have done."

Wolfe, a member of the crew of the fishing schooner Phillip Manton of New York, became lost from the vessel during a fog.

FOUR GET $2 PRIZES FOR TIPS

Two men and two women from South Boston, Malden, Winthrop and North Weymouth share prizes of $2 each in the Weekly Tipster Contest sponsored by the Boston-Record-Boston American-Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The prizes go to a South Boston man for reporting a thrilling hit and run chase in a stolen car.

A Malden woman for reporting a bold gasoline station holdup in Malden, following which the bandit was captured; a North Weymouth man for a two-alarm fire in that district which threatened several summer cottages, and a Winthrop woman for a chemical explosion in which a man, severely burned, ran from the scene, to be met by neighbors, who put out the fire.

If you see anything of news or picture value don't hesitate to contact the News Tip Editor at Liberty 4000. Your timely tip may win a cash prize.

Awards of $1 each go to a South Boston man for reporting the arrival of a fishing schooner whose crew told of the loss of a man at sea; a Milton woman for a similar death at sea; a Lexington woman for a collision between a truck and an automobile; a Somerville man for reporting an accident in which an automobile struck a pedestrian and then sideswiped two other cars, a Back Bay man for the tip that a woman fell in a subway excavation; a Dorchester woman for the tip that a truck crashed into a pole in Dorchester and a Medford man for the shooting of a boy burglar.

Other $1 awards go to a Charlestown woman for the tip that a police officer while investigating an auto case was bitten by a dog; a Wellesley Hills woman for reporting a student strike at Needham high school; a Lexington woman for an automobile accident in which several persons were injured, a Norwood woman for an airplane crash which injured a well-known pilot, a Lynnfield man for reporting that a man was found dead in an auto in a wooded section of Lynnfield and a Mattapan man for reporting the death of a rabbi

Additional $1 prizes go to a West End man for reporting a Blossom st., West End, fire; a Dorchester woman for a stolen car chase in Dorchester in which several shots were fired by police; a Quincy man for tipping on breaks into four safes in High st., Quincy, and a Dorchester man for reporting the suicide of a South End fighter.

Boston & Maine Air Line Doubles Flights

Flights between Boston and Maine will be more than doubled when daylight savings time starts Sunday, the Boston-Maine Airways announced today.

Included in the new schedule are five round trips on week-days between Boston and Portland and three round trips between Boston and Lewiston-Auburn, Augusta, Waterville and Bangor.

Also scheduled is a late-evening flight, leaving Boston at 10 p. m. and arriving at Bangor at 11:57 p. m. with stops en route.

Ilka Chase Plans Broadcasts Here

Ilka Chase, who stars with Jimmy Durante, Ray Bolger and Jane Froman in the new musical "Keep Off The Grass," coming to the Shubert Theater next Monday, is a very busy woman.

In addition to acting in this new musical she conducts a well-known radio program each Saturday and delivers running comment on the fashion shows. During the engagement of the revue here, Miss Chase will give her broadcast, using, as is her custom, well-known Bostonians.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 23—If Para lines up any more island romances for Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope to follow "Road to Singapore" they'll be known as the three stooges of the tropics before long.

VISITED BY STORK—Mrs. William Henry, the former Grace Durkin, is the proud mother of a son born in Hollywood.

Just a few days ago they told me Dottie, Bing and Bob were set for "Blue Lagoon" immediately and then by way of making my Monday morning confusing they call up to say that Bob, Bing and Dottie will also team up for "Road to Rio," the latter an original by Cy Bartlett and Don Hartmann.

Perhaps the studio can't be blamed for trying to follow up a money-making success but too many stories along the same lines will get tiresome even with La Lamour's sarongs, Bing's singing and Bob's clowning.

Addison Randall, who's hopped on and off the matrimonial merry-go-round with Louise Stanley so many times we're dizzy just from watching (imagine how he must feel!) will trade his Stetson for a topper and go "Man About Town" in a Universal picture.

Ad, known to his fans as Jack Randall, has one more cowboy epic to do for Monogram and then he's hoping to get out of the saddle for keeps. He's been allowed to select his own leading lady for his last western. "Wild Horse Range," and has chosen Phyllis Ruth, a youngster who has never appeared on the screen.

HOLLYWOOD CHATTER: Fred Stone, Irvin S. Cobb and Leo Carrillo huddling over plans for new Will Rogers memorial. Highway 66 may be named after the beloved Will, whose friends are tireless in their efforts to keep his name alive; the town's newest and proudest papa, William Henry, phoning to say that Wife Grace Durkin presented him with a 7-pound 5-ounce boy at Good Samaritan Hospital Saturday The young man will be called Duke Michael Henry; Loretta Young and Tom Lewis act as if they mean it.

Glamour Galore For Gayety Fans

The Gayety Theater has glamour girls galore in its scintillating revue "Why Boys Leave Home."

Continuing for the remainder of the week, it offers streamlined Elinor Wood, who is initiating customers into the intricacies of her terpsichorean creation, "Dance of The Flame," golden-haired Annette, exotic Diane King and the fast-stepping King sisters.

For humor, the revue presents Tommy Raft, one of the most popular comedians in burlesque today and Eddie "Nuts" Kaplan, always a favorite in Boston.

"Call Me A Messenger," featuring the Dead End Kids and "The Days the Bookies Wept," starring Joe Penner are the screen attractions.

With a versatile and daring repertory, Mayita, internationally-acclaimed burlesque star, continues to pack in customers at the Globe Theater. Just returned from London and Paris where she precipitated a strip-tease furore, the queen of them all more than justifies her trans-Atlantic reputation with her performance at the Globe.

Adequately supporting her are Patricia Cornell, Marie Voe, Louise Rogers, all charming in the mastery of their art.

Harry Conley, Harry Clexx, Harry Ryan and Billy Fields maintain the comedy score at a rapid pace. The week's engagement of this attraction concludes Thursday night with radio amateur contest as an added feature.

'ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS' OPENS THURSDAY AT KEITH'S

Massey Stars In Film Version

The long-awaited screen version of Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer Prize Play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," will be unreeled for the first time Thursday morning at the Keith Memorial Theater.

Starring Raymond Massey in the memorable role he created on the stage, the film is a brilliant, searching drama of the real Lincoln during his formative years. Since the screen play adheres closely to the stage original, Massey can be counted upon for the same sensitive portrayal of the Great Emancipator that made the Sherwood original one of the great plays of the 1939 season.

The tale opens with Lincoln's arrival in Illinois. How he becomes storekeeper and a postmaster, his shy romance with Ann Rutledge and the beginning of his political career, comprise the first half of the absorbing film.

The ensuing sequences deal with his meeting with Mary Todd, his rivalry with Stephen A. Douglas for her hand, their subsequent marriage and various steps that led to his departure for the White House to face the coming of the Civil War.

The supporting cast, chosen with care, includes Gene Lockhart, Ruth Gordon, Mary Howard, Dorothy Tree, Harvey Stephens, Minor Watson and Alan Baxter.

In Sherwood's play, John Cromwell's direction and Massey's acting talents, we seem to have a 1940 answer to the unprecedented success of "GWTW."

Love and laughter flourish in the gay companion feature "Free, Blonde and 21" starring Lynn Bari, Mary Beth Hughes, Joan Davis and Henry Wilcoxon. Dealing with the drama connected with the lives and loves of new residents at the Sherrington, swank metropolitan hotel for women, it should prove a refreshing draught after the serious drama of Lincoln.

A new Walt Disney "Officer Duck" and the latest "Information Please," with Gene Tunney as guest star round out an adequate bill of entertainment.

MARY HOWARD and Raymond Massey in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," coming Thursday to the Keith Memorial.

Zorita, Sunya Top Howard Bill

Exotic Zorita is the headliner of the fun-packed revue, "Bare Facts," current week's attraction at the Old Howard. An exceptionally capable cast includes Sunya Siane, who wins scores of new friends with each appearance here and lovely Jean Carroll, who ranks high in burlesque company.

The spice and variety of this carnival of feminine charm is offset by the comic antics of that hilarious pair, Fred Binder and Jack Rosen, and the talented stage jester, Al Pharr. An outstanding event in the show is the appearance of Ben Hamid Troupe, sensational Arabian acrobats.

Screen offerings include "Angels With Dirty Faces," starring James Cagney and Ann Sheridan and "Fighting Gringo," with George O'Brien. There are three shows daily at the Old Howard, starting at 12 noon. Every Friday a midnight show is held.

'Balalaika' Tops Normandie Bill

"Balalaika," musical picture with Russian background, starring the inimitable Nelson Eddy, is the attraction at the Normandie for the next three days. Companion film is "Scandal Sheet," an amazing film of newspaperdom antics.

HEY, GANG!

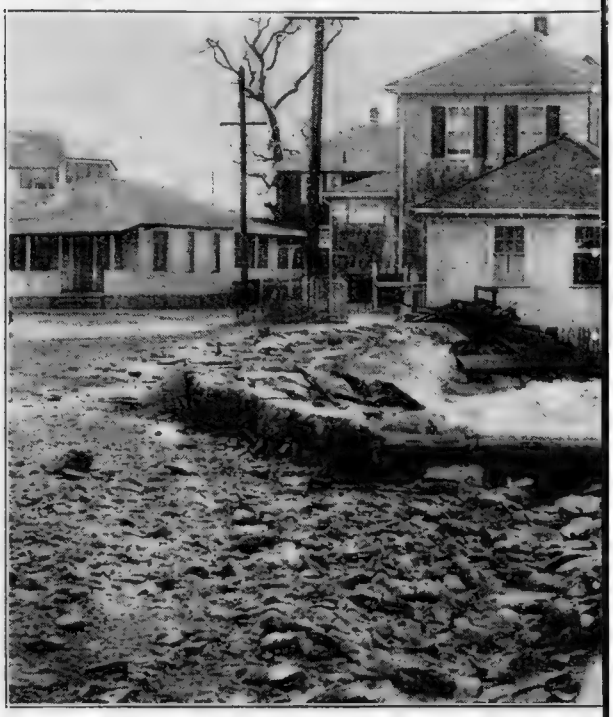
Circus Is Coming!

Circus

Storms to the contrary, spring's here . . . and the circus, including the giraffe above and Bobby Warriner and her pet elephant below, is definitely scheduled for Boston on May 2. Now, look at the storm . . .

TIDE, WIND, RAIN . . .

Bay State Coastline Battered by Gale



Hough's Neck—Under the beating of such tide-borne as this, cottages at Hough's Neck tremb to their foundations . . . losing roofs, porches and windows in a nightm of howling destruction.

Nantasket—There's a job for ship salvagers and wall builders Nantasket today . . . where the good ship Na Hulk was tossed a thousand feet . . . and the wall lay down in the face King Neptune's tune.

RIO OF DESTRUCTION

. . . With Damage in the Thousands

Salisbury—A tip-off as to what the storm is doing to Salisbuy Beach is shown here . . . with the shore littered with boulders from sea wall and beams from houses.

Ohio on Rampage—For miles along the low-flowing Ohio river, homes by the thousands are turned into islands . . . and at Sugar Grove, O., the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad's right-of-way looks like this . . . with workmen seeking to make sufficient repairs to let stalled trains go by.

Stylish

Glamorous Joan Bennett of the films shows off a simple black dinner dress that brings "ohs" and "ahs" from beholders wherever she goes . . . and she goes everywhere.

Save the Pedestrian!

THE REAL "forgotten man" in Boston, New England and the United States is the PEDESTRIAN.

An individual may be the fortunate one person in three who owns and operates an automobile.

He may ride daily to his place of employment in a railroad train, street car or bus.

He may use the "El" or subway to go to school, church and the movies.

He may enjoy the luxury and speed of the aeroplane on long trips.

He may delight in the zestful qualities of the steamship or sailboat.

But his pedestrian status is unaffected.

Somewhere along the line, no matter how he travels or where he goes, he is usually obliged to shift back to the foot method of locomotion.

"El" cars do not enter schools. Railroad trains do not deposit their passengers in the orchestra pits of theaters. Family cars do not climb cathedral steps, turn down aisles and stop at owners' pews. Nor do sailboats move placidly into offices.

THREE INCHES BETWEEN THEM AND INJURY OR DEATH!

Let Us Have Safety Lanes to Protect All Mothers and Babies

To get to these places, automobile, bus, train and boat occupants must leave these vehicles and WALK.

Consequently—and there is scant room for argument—America is in a very large sense a nation of PEDESTRIANS—and "FORGOTTEN MEN."

ONE MIGHT EXPECT to see everything done for the convenience and safety of the man, woman and child on foot.

The United States is a democracy, in which the majority rules. With pedestrians so overwhelmingly in the majority, it is logical to suppose that everything conceivable and feasible would be done FOR THEM.

But, unfortunately, that is NOT THE CASE. Actually the opposite is true. Remarkably little is done for the pedestrian.

Mr. Rufus G. Jasper, traffic engineer of the National Safety Council, explains the situation convincingly when he says America is MOTOR-MINDED and declares:

"Pedestrian accidents usually occur at night, when not so many people are abroad. There is practically no noise. A screeching of brakes, perhaps followed by a muffled thud. But nothing so noisy as the crash of two vehicles.

"By the time a crowd has gathered, the victim usually has been taken to a hospital or morgue, and the only visible sign of the accident left are skidmarks, a broken headlamp, a bit of the victim's clothing, such as a shoe or a hat—and a dark splotch on the pavement."

And that dark splotch may very possibly some day be the blood of any reader of this editorial, that of his wife, his mother, his little girl or boy or some other person near and dear to him!

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION therefore is: WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO TO KEEP PEDESTRIANS OUT OF CEMETERIES?

Automobiles killed 12,500 persons who were walking on the country's streets and highways last year and injured 275,000 others.

In Massachusetts alone, 360 men, women and children met death in this manner, while 10,308 were hurt, scores of them maimed and crippled for life.

This year as many and probably hundreds more will suffer and die similarly UNLESS INTELLIGENT ACTION IS BEGUN TODAY.

Let Boston be the first major city TO BEGIN IT.

Let us make the right start by painting SAFETY LANES at every crossing and intersection.

Let pedestrians be encouraged to USE these safety lanes and let motorists be induced to RESPECT them.

Boston may be hard-pressed financially, but it is not so hard-pressed that it cannot afford to buy a few hundred gallons of cheap paint TO SAVE LIVES.

Certainly there is a lot more common sense and a great deal more humanity in spending a little money now to keep people ALIVE than in spending more money later on to bury their dead bodies.

April Showers

FLOWERS when sprinkled gently . . . gaze up in gratitude . . . so sweetly and intently . . . as if they understood . . . as if, "this kindness," they would say . . . "with dovely blossoms we'll repay."

If we appreciated . . . the showers, and upward gazed . . . we'd find them violet-freighted . . . and well might be amazed . . . to see a radiant angel stand . . . a watering-pot within her hand.

Yet when on earth it's raining . . . when comes a drizzly day . . . it finds us all complaining . . . Indoors we have to stay . . . Why should we not, as well as flowers . . . be grateful for the April showers?

FOUR-WEEKS' vacations with pay! This would be a good policy for American employers to adopt. Be good for business. People on vacations with pay spend. Another angle is four weeks would give people a chance to travel around America and get acquainted with their country and their countrymen. That would be good for patriotism.

THE MOST HEARTLESS employer continues to be the housewife or homemaker. They work their household help on an average of 72 hours a week and pay the lowest wages of any industry . . . College fraternities are not so bad but most sororities are hotbeds of petty snobbery . . . While it is possibly true, it was very unkind of a critic to say of a film star who sings: "She is a strident vocalist who vehemently assaults the ear. . . "Shoes that fit prevent wrinkles in the forehead," says La Meri, the dancer.

A SCIENTIST SAYS that in a match race an ostrich would beat Seabiscuit because the former can run a mile a minute. I question this. A racehorse is bred to run races. The ostrich would probably bear out, run the wrong way or bury his head in the sand in the backstretch. I would bet on Seabiscuit. Not only that I will, in behalf of my "If I get him" horse "Always Trying," challenge any ostrich in the world to a mile race at equal weights. Think of the billing: "Ed Durling's horse, Always Trying, vs. an Ostrich."

GLAMOROUS GRETA GARBO ENDS RETIREMENT

Thanks to New Heart-Throb, She Even Visits Night Clubs

Think, also of the headline writers opportunity after the race: "Always Trying Going Away; Ostrich Lays an Egg."

"WHO GAVE YOU that tip on Mioland to win the Kentucky Derby?" asks Pittsburgh customer. Nobody, sir. Just my opinion. Watching Mioland come down the stretch, I noticed the farther he went the faster he went. That's not bad for a mile and a quarter race for three-year-olds . . . If you have lived to be 58, you have a good chance of living to be 88, say the longevity experts . . . Men should wear shorts to the office on hot summer days is one doctor's advice. How would your boss look coming into the office in shorts? How about yourself? . . . So you still think you are observant? All right, what is the first word in the Constitution of the United States? And the first word in the Declaration of Independence?

DR. GAYELORD HAUSER, Garbo's current heart-throb, seems to have taken Greta in hand and told her to wake up and live. She even goes to night clubs now. And when she says "I tank ay go home," Dr. Hauser says "not yet" and Greta says meekly "all right, darling" reminds me when I was in Ravello, Italy, last summer a guide pointed at a place and said "That is where was Garbo and Stokowski" . . . And a lady from Philadelphia who was in the party snapped, "Never mind that. Show us where Wagner wrote Parsifal,"

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, April 23 — I left Hyde Park yesterday morning under skies still gray with a sprinkling of snow in the air. I worked all the way down in the train for fear that the planes would not fly, but I could have spared myself the trouble, because I arrived in Washington in ample time.

A blue sky was just emerging, but I had not reckoned on the wind. It nearly blew me off my feet in the short walk from the plane to the car.

IT WAS a great pleasure to have a number of New York City friends come to lunch yesterday. Later I was able to drop in for a minute at a party being given for the benefit of the Committee on the Control of Cancer.

This committee is very active everywhere and has done a very remarkable piece of work in acquainting people with the fact that whenever anything seems to be wrong physically, it is best to consult a doctor.

The National League of American Pen Women were received at 4 o'clock and at 5 o'clock a group of ladies from the Columbia University Alumnae Club. At 5:30 still another group came to tea,

"PROTECTING THE PUBLIC"

That's U. S. Interest, Says Mrs. Roosevelt and last evening a group of Barnard students came in from 8:30 till nine.

I think it is very valuable for these young people to visit Washington and to familiarize themselves wth all the various activities of government. It will point the way to many activities in states and communities with which they should familiarize themselves and it may give them ideas on the kind of work they might like to do in civic positions or in private industry or the professions.

The news from abroad continues to be disheartening to the extreme. I think the situation which was found to exist in Norway has made many people in this country more suspicious of every kind of foreign influence.

I am not surprised at this and in one way it is helpful, but I think we must be extremely careful, lest in our anxiety to protect ourselves, we do away with some of our precious liberties.

THE REGULARLY constituted government agencies always have the check of the courts, before which they must bring any accused person and present proof of guilt. This necessity of proving any suspicions should never be relaxed for a minute, because if we once begin to neglect any of our carefully built-up protections, we are leaning toward the solution arrived at by dictatorships to protect the dictator and not the public.

Here, in the United States, we are interested in protecting the public

Herbert Hoover

Broadway Medley

NO PORTRAIT FOR MR. HOOVER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 23—President Roosevelt recently approved the $2500 appropriation for a portrait to be made of Herbert Hoover, to hang in the White House together with all the portraits of the former Presidents . . . Mr. Hoover, however, feels that his political sun has not set, as yet, and that some day he again will become a tenant at the White House. That's why he is refusing to recognize this appropriation—and won't pose for the portrait of an ex-President.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK, who is directing "Foreign Correspondent," is a perfectionist. For that movie Hitchcock wanted Joel McCrea to wear an unusual type of bowler hat worn by racing men in England. The only hat of this type was at the John W. Ryan store in Penn Station here—a hat owned by the late Mr. Ryan. McCrea will wear that hat in the picture . . . Martin Gabel, star and co-producer of "Medicine Show," gives such a convincing performance that when, in the prologue, he asks "members" of the audience to come up on the stage regular customers respond—instead of the actor-volunteers placed in the orchestra . . . The President of Venezuela will answer Roosevelt's Pan-American speech on April 27 in a broadcast to America.

LILLIAN GISH

LILLIAN GISH, who is starring in the Chicago company of "Life With Father," was invited to a classroom at the University of Chicago and listen to lectures conducted by two noted pedagogues—Hutchins, president of the university, and Adler, author of "How to Read a Book" . . . The lectures were on Adam Smith and Higher Economics. "Did you learn something from this?" Miss Gish was asked . . . "Frankly," she replied, "it sounded just like Mother: 'Now, Lillian, don't mistake your salary for your income.'"

FRANCHOT TONE gave a pep talk to the cast of "The Fifth Column," asking them to do their best, because Joan Crawford was in the audience. When Arnold Moss came off stage, after a long scene with Franchot, he asked: "Well, was that all right?" Tone confessed: "I didn't hear a word you said" . . . The final curtain scene in "Heavenly Express" is the most exciting moment in the New York theater today.

"I KEEP THINKING of my home town of Fresno and the day I spent with you and Sylvia there," writes William Saroyan. "That place is surrealistic, but the river; oh, boy. This is on the level. The crazy fish are so happy in the San Joaquin River they go swimming with the swimmers. No matter what we did, diving after 'em, trying to grab 'em, they wouldn't go away. So we got sore and started fishing. Guess what the fish did? They examined the bait (which was bacon), looked at us a moment, kind of worried, swam away in a hurry, and three minutes later came back—five of 'em—each with a worm for us. Typical. Absolutely typical."

By JOSEPH CARTER

(Subbing for George Holland, who is on Vacation)

ROARING FLAMES and billowing smoke clouds held no terrors for him for all of forty-four years of service . . . There was never a time when he turned back, and, more than once, his courage put him in the hospital, fighting for the life he was willing to give to save the lives of others . . . And three times they called him up on the carpet and, while he blushed under the red of his face, pinned medals on him . . . Massachusetts Humane Society medals for valor . . . Then his old legs began to give a little, his joints to ache with rheumatics—put there, maybe, by freezing water from freezing hose lines on freezing nights . . . and in 1936 he turned in his badge to spend the rest of his days in honorable retirement.

SO THIS is a kind of a private memorandum for the eyes of Rose Locke, and Ethel Rosenthal and maybe a dozen or so more whose lives he saved . . . It's to tell them that Lieut. John J. Hogan, of the Hyde Park Fire Department, retired, is again battling for his life, but this time the odds seem to be against him . . . He's on the danger list at City Hospital, and very, very ill . . . But should he respond to that last great alarm now—and he may—those who knew him well will give him the highest tribute such as he can earn . . . They'll say: "There goes a great fireman . . . a great man."

WHILE ON THE TOPIC of firemen, let's listen to the story of the 9-year-old son of one of Weymouth's bravest . . . He was given a baseball for a birthday gift, and was out playing catch with another as young when some older boys wanted to take it away to start a game . . . Nothing doing! . . . The tad streaked down the street, crying, hugging his ball, and, at the corner . . . turned in a fire alarm . . . Four pieces of apparatus screamed up to find him hugging the post of the fire box, tears of defiance and anger running down his cheeks . . . Pop took him to the station house to talk it over with a fireman's belt . . . but he kept his ball.

HARVARD IS PROFOUNDLY unmoved by the row over whether Bertrand Russell shall or shall not be allowed to lecture there . . . The deal, say Harvard's headmen, was consummated long before the newspaper row started in New York, and will stand as is . . . He is to lecture on semantics, which, if you are curious—we looked it up—is "the science of meanings" . . . He is an authority on mathematics—yes, and on romance.

GOVERNOR LEVERETT SALTONSTALL has been suggested as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for President, in event of a G. O. P. deadlock . . . Predictions on the future public life of a public figure are generally rife, and we offer this at no extra cost: Saltonstall may leave public life and take over the headmastership of the super preparatory school, Groton . . . The governor is an alumnus of the school, as is another figure in public life whose name we can't mention, but whose initials are F. D. R. . . . Dr. Endicott Peabody, at present head of the school, has already announced that he will retire in June, leaving his position vacant . . . The governor has all the qualifications . . . He finds nothing wrong with public life, but . . . the headmastership of Groton carries with it an immense amount of prestige, and you're never bothered by sharpshooters of any description.

BETTY GRABLE BACK IN FILMS SOON

By Louella O. Parsons

Betty Grable

HOLLYWOOD, April 23 — Broadway's stage door Johnnies will have to find a new object for their affections shortly when Betty Grable, who's been the toast of New York in "DuBarry Was a Lady," heads for the Coast to begin her new 20th Century-Fox contract. Betty is due here July 1 and will go straight into "Say It With Music." This musical was originally slated as an Irving Berlin production, but I am told now that Kenneth MacGowan will produce and there is some doubt as to whether Berlin will be connected with the film.

KAY FRANCIS

INCIDENTALLY, with such promising additions to the 20th roster as the little Grable, Alan Curtis and Dean Jagger, and with Linda Darnell and Brenda Joyce rising rapidly in public favor, Darryl Zanuck will no longer find it necessary to run his more established champions in every race. Although no one denies Darryl's genius for creating and building new stars he has been criticised for putting his box office winners into too many pictures. Apparently he feels the criticism is a just one for he is about to embark on an entirely new policy—from now on Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Henry Fonda will make no more than four pictures a year.

OUTSTANDING EVENT of the week-end the tennis matches at the Ambassador with Bill Tilden and Paulette Goddard meeting Lester Stoeffen and Judy Garland for mixed doubles and Tilden and Mickey Rooney teaming against Stoeffen and Rudy Vallee for men's doubles. TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE SHINY, low slung roadster with its two grim-faced occupants raced madly up the highway, closely followed by a black sedan. One of the men, glancing furtively at the fast approaching car, was obviously under great strain. He chattered nervously to his companion.

"Joe, she's gainin' on us. I tell ya, she's a wildcat. You won't let her do it, will ya? You'll back me up, won't ya Joe?"

THE OTHER man, calm, tight lipped, answered sharply.

"Nothin' doin', Tom, it's your neck this time. It was your idea to lam out of town when you took the dough. I don't know nothin' and ain't gettin' mixed up with her."

"Joe, you mean after all these years you'd let this happen to me?"

So absorbed were they that the sedan had crowded them to a stop before they were fully aware of it. Screeching of brakes and angry ejaculations ensued, then a dead silence.

Suddenly, a feminine voice, with pistol-shot sharpness lashed the stillness of the air:

"Tom Dobbs, get out and hand over that dough or it's the finish."

"I haven't got it, Jeanie. I swear I haven't. As my wife, please give me another chance, Jeanie, please!"

She laughed coarsely. "Another chance after you and that no good Joe Smith swiped my dough to play poker?"

Tom's stricken face worked convulsively as she said threateningly: "This is the end, Tom. This time I mean it." Her voice rose hysterically, "TM . . . I'M GOING STRAIGHT BACK TO MOTHER!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

YOU ARE WAITING to do something.

The thing you are waiting to do is important. It may affect your whole life. Great good fortune may come out of it.

But, on the other hand, there's also an element of risk in it. It may cause unpleasantness—may muss things up.

And so you've delayed. Of course, you intend to do it some day, BUT YOURE WAITING FOR THE RIGHT TIME TO COME.

Some day when it's perfectly convenient, when it won't cause a lot of complications, when you're absolutely sure that everything is okay—then you'll do it. See you!

No, you won't! You'll never do it at that time, for that time will never come.

THE IDEAL TIME for action never does come. Not for anyone. No human step has ever been taken that was 100 per cent wise, safe, pleasant and convenient.

There always a good reason AGAINST doing anything. There are often as many reasons against doing a thing as there are reasons FOR doing it.

And if you "stop, look and listen" to all those reasons you'll never go ahead.

But shouldn't you look at both sides of the question?

You should. You should take every point into consideration; investigate every danger, size up the probable profit and the possible price.

You should do this thoroughly — ONCE. Then you should either fish or cut bait.

FOR IF YOU keep on enumerating all the dangers to yourself you'll never do anything else but. Each new resume of the dangers ahead will chill and muddle and frighten you the more.

Of course, you can alibi this process by calling it "caution." BUT IT ISN'T CAUTION—IT'S COWARDICE.

'Bare Knees' Styles Arrive

By ANNICE BRINK

KNEES are out in the open again . . . but not in the style of those dear, departed days of 1929 . . . today's knees are really out, bare and smooth above knee-length socks, and pretty to look at below swinging flare or kilt-pleated skirts!

In pastel flannels, or extra smart in grey flannel which made a huge success in slacks as an after-ski costume this past winter, the "bare knees" costumes have already made their bow in Boston. The skirts are usually high waisted and end about three inches above the knee . . . which is a wonderful length.

Before these "bare knee" fashions really get a chance to shine in country, on golf course, for spring skiing, or wherever, they will find a ready acceptance among the devotees of the duckpins. Bowlers find the smooth fit of the high waistline and the unhampered feeling of a short flare skirt to be most helpful when they concentrate on the all-too-upright pins.

Don't think that all you have to do is give your knees an extra scrub or two to make them presentable. They're going in for all sorts of glamorous doings, now that they're to make a public appearance, courtesy of a new fashion. You'll want to use something to make the skin extra smooth, and don't be surprised if you find yourself slapping a make-up on them . . . and finishing off with a little black moon, which is an adhesive beauty mark, no less!

You Can Be Beautiful

Firm Skin Around Eyes

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU catch sight of yourself unexpectedly in a mirror . . . when you're laughing your head off . . . and you're stopped short because you think that that couldn't possibly be you, with the fan of wrinkles surrounding your own bright eyes . . . don't take a vow to keep a straight face forever after . . . start in a meticulous regime of lubrication with an astoundingly rich, elegantly oily cream!

It will help build up a firmness that keeps the wrinkles at bay . . . a crispness around the eyes that belongs to youth. Since in the passage of years, oil and fat in the ungenerous padding of tissue that nature provides around your eyes are lost . . . you have to make it up somehow, and lubricating with a specifically devised cream is the best bet science and cosmetics offer to date! We've found one that is a wow, without a doubt.

You needn't whack a hole in the baby's china pig bank to buy this cream either, because a relatively good-sized jar (eye creams usually come in thumb-size containers) is only a dollar.

It smells sweetly of June moons and flower gardens, but more important than that is the texture . . . almost like solidified oil, golden and of a super-fine texture. Dissolves under the merest touch of your fingers, indicating that there's not a pull in a carton . . . and a tender touch counts in caring for under-eye wrinkles.

For that indispensable touch of glamour . . . you'll find that smoothing a bit of this transparent, shining cream on the eyelids after your make-up will set it off with a young, gleaming look that's worth more than heirloom pearls.

If you'd like to learn all about this unusually super-fine, oil-crammed eye cream, a generous jar of which is only a dollar, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TO SHOW off soft fringes of hair . . . and hats that sweep frankly off the forehead . . . and boyish little blouses . . . all the smartly casual new fashions like those Anna Neagle models . . . your complexion should have the crisp texture of a daffodil petal . . . if it's failing and giving way to lines around the eyes, you need the indispensable aid of a fine eye cream, which Arline Gould describes today.

Fashion Art Is Profitable

CHARTS SHOW HOW TO AVOID AMATEUR FAULTS

What a contrast the artist finds between the two drawings—one her first distorted attempt at a fashion figure, the other the same figure after she has learned how to draw it professionally.

You can make as great strides as she, with right instruction. In a simple home course you can learn the principles of fashion drawing, and prepare for a profitable career.

Charts show the correct proportions of the body and following them, you easily avoid amateur distortions. Your eye is trained to see truly; you draw graceful, well-modeled figures.

Notice in the chart given above how you measure the figure by the length of the head. The entire figure, for instance, is 7½ "heads" high.

Our 40-page booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, gives you practical instruction in drawing fashion figures. Has 138 illustrations, including charts based on the Da Vinci rules of figure proportion. Gives clear explanations of light and shade, wash, composition, the rendering of fabrics, fur. Shows how to bring out merchandise points, do salable work.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Pudding That's Inexpensive

By MARTHA LEE

AN INEXPENSIVE PUDDING that tastes like a million is one filled with dried fruits and topped with whipped cream or a tart sauce.

Here is a dessert that knows no season, as dried prunes, apricots, pears, peaches, dates, figs, etc., can be purchased throughout the year. It's just as good served hot or cold, and the left-overs are just as tasty the second day as the pudding itself was the first. This is something to be considered if your family is large and preparing desserts every day is a bit of a problem.

Right now, when fresh fruits are a little high, don't overlook the possibilities of dried fruits, served plain or in cakes and puddings.

Here's the recipe for our favorite dried fruit pudding. Try it and see if you don't share our opinion.

DRIED FRUIT BETTY

2 cups soft bread crumbs or cubed left-over bread
1 lb. mixed dried fruit
½ cup seeded raisins
½ cup molasses
½ cup water
¼ tsp. nutmeg
Grated rind of ½ lemon
1½ tbsp. lemon juice
2 tbsp. melted butter

Soak dried fruit overnight. Put ½ of the bread in bottom of a buttered baking dish; cover with ½ the dried fruit, molasses, water, spices, lemon juice and rind. Cover with remainder of crumbs. Arrange a layer of fruit on top; add rest of molasses and flavorings. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for one hour. Serve with:

LEMON SAUCE

1 tbsp. cornstarch
½ cup sugar
Few grains salt
1 cup boiling water
1 tbsp. butter
Grated rind of ½ lemon
¼ cup lemon juice

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt in a saucepan. Stir in the water. Cook sauce, stirring constantly, until it boils. Stir in the butter, lemon rind and juice. Serve hot over pudding.

PRUNE-APRICOT UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

4 tbsp. butter
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
15 cooked apricots
6 cooked prunes, halved and seeded
Miracle cake batter

Melt butter in an 8x8x2 inch pan over low flame. Add sugar; stir until melted. On this arrange apricots and prunes, cut-side up, alternating an apricot with a prune half. Pour about 1-3 of miracle cake batter over contents of pan. Bake at once in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 50 minutes, or until done. Loosen cake from sides and bottom of pan with spatula. Serve upside down on dish with fruit on top. Garnish with whipped cream. This upside down cake may be served hot or cold.

MIRACLE CAKE

4 2-3 cups sifted cake flour
4½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 cup butter or other shortening
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups milk
2 tsp. vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and mix well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Divide batter into pans for storing and baking in other desserts like upside down cake.

At Yellowhead Pass

By Heinz Liepmann

WHERE the railroad follows the Skeena river westward toward Prince Rupert and the Pacific ocean, it passes through high cliff walls in the Cascade and Coast ranges where tiny silver ribbons of waterfalls make lovely lacework on the sides of brown and gray rock.

The work of these little waterfalls is slow but sure—and dangerous. One time, a thousand three hundred feet above the lines of steel along which a transcontinental train crawled, a lance wedge of rock became loosened. Perhaps it was the small vibration of the train itself which did the final work. At any rate without warning, the brown wedge, longer than a Pullman car and weighing more than a locomotive, started to slide.

It gathered momentum. It struck a projection and was hurled outward. It crashed—and when the dust and splinters had settled, the railroad train was in two parts. One of the coaches had been struck. It had been carried from the track, and over into the bed of the river, buried there under a pile of rock.

They never found the body of Mark Akeley. By and by the small canning factory at Prince Rupert was sold to a big salmon company; and with enough money to allow her to take a business course after high school, Ellen Akeley came to the States to live with her dead mother's family.

Three years later blonde-haired, blue-eyed Ellen was modeling dresses and coats at Trepanier's. She had not been much of a success as a stenographer, for the city seemed to daze her. She applied for a model's job, since her weight—115 pounds—her height and her natural ability to make even cheap clothes look chic, were all to the good.

But it really was what Luke Anderson called her dead pan that got her in at Trepanier's. Usually Luke had to train a girl not to smile. "Wipe off that grin!" was Luke's most-used phrase when putting a neophyte model through preliminary paces.

"A NATURAL."

He never had to say that to Ellen. He taught her the slow pace, the lounging hip swing, watched her show Persian lamb jackets, long coats, deb frocks and gowns—and nodded to himself. "The gal's a natural," he told Mme. Trepanier. "She never felt an emotion in her life. Pay her tops and tell her if she gains more than two pounds she loses her job."

Two weeks before at Christmas season, while she still had been pounding keys, Ellen had walked down to 28th Street. There she bought a miniature cedar Christmas tree, 30 inches high, and brought it back to the East 37th Street apartment she shared with Doris O'Sann and Judy Rourke. They wondered why Ellen did not decorate her tree—both of them were going home for Christmas—but Ellen just put the little cedar on the table, and stood near it, drawing the tangy scent deep into her lungs. As such times the far-away look was in her eyes, and she sometimes did not hear the others address her. She was seeing cedar trees, Sitka spruces, Douglas firs, sugar pines . . . 100 times 30 inches high.

The Cast of Characters in "Yellowhead Pass"

ELLEN, a lonesome model who longs for the old scenes of her native British Columbia.

ED, who raises strawberries and does a bit of etching on the side.

She returned to 28th St. On that first trip she had seen another thing which brought a lump to her throat. Because she was carrying the tree she just shrugged then and passed along. Now she went back really to look.

At the corner of Fifth Ave. and 28th St. was a shop window, and in it a sign: ORIGINAL ETCHINGS . . . $2.00.

Ellen had heard many crude jokes about etchings, but these were the first she had seen. Actually she saw only one of these. It had widened her blue eyes, then misted them. The picture showed the crest of a railway grade, between two uprising lines of barren mountain. A double-header locomotive was just attaining the crest pulling a long passenger train; and the puffs of black smoke from the stacks showed that the climb had not been easy. The title of the etching, written in bold, black strokes of longhand, was—Tete Jaune—and over in the right hand corner was a signature all loops and curlicues, that looked like E S Marr.

Ellen had been over Yellowhead Pass. It was the crest of the Rockies on the Canadian National road. To westward lay her homeland, the land of trees rivaled only by the redwoods of California.

"YELLOWHEAD PASS"

To eastward down the long slope lay the wheat lands, the flat country of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba where day after day the slow train passed through nothing but wheat. And then beyond that the East, with great cities, and a din that never ceased to throb in the brain of the girl.

She bought the etching with almost the last penny she possessed or would have until the week-end, and brought it back. And when she was alone she took it near the little cedar tree, and feasted her eyes upon it. Always she searched the horizon, wondering if by chance she might have missed some indication of the country that lay beyond. But the artist had contented himself with just Yellowhead Pass.

An invitation to an engagement shower coincided the following week with the necessity of buying new shoes and silk stockings. At her model's job perfection in footwear was a sine qua non. But these purchases left her longing to decline the invitation to the shower being given in Garden City for Peggy Carrell. Peggy herself was no more than an acquaintance, but the girl giving the shower at her own home was Doris O'Sann, Ellen's roommate. Doris would drive Judy and Ellen out in her brother's car, and the brother would bring them back to town. Just the same, that meant a shower present—and for a girl of rather well-to-do parents. None of the little Mexican pottery doodads or pairs of cheap bookends would suffice. After thinking it over, and taking a deep breath, Ellen rewrapped her etching carefully and carried it out as her present to winsome Peggy Carrell.

To do the affair justice, Ellen's etching got flattering attention. Peggy herself seemed enthralled by it. She even planned aloud where she and her Frank would hang it.

But through the evening, until ten o'clock when a crowd of young men appeared, Ellen's heart sank lower and lower. She felt that a last link with the home she loved now had been severed.

One of the men, a dark-eyed chap in dinner jacket—a tall, well built youth with an odd trick of smiling only with his eyes—caught sight of the etching and fairly pounced upon it.

"Of course you mustn't say that to Peggy," she whispered. "I'm just a little homesick fool."

"Oh, of course I like it—much!" he told Peggy when she pressed him. "But who did you say brought it?"

So laughing a little, Peggy introduced Ellen and Ed Mott. Ellen had to tell him just how she had found the picture, and hint, at least, at the nostalgia it had inspired. Ellen found herself smiling a trifle wistfully, and telling him of her beloved British Columbia, and how giving this picture now seemed to be breaking forever all contact with the world of her girlhood.

"Of course you mustn't say that to Peggy!" she whispered. "I'm just a little homesick fool."

"Oh, not that. We all feel that way about our homes." Ed Mott said sympathetically. "I—er—wonder if I couldn't ride back to town with you? Or could I get a cab . . .?"

In the end he got a cab, since Doris was staying with her parents until morning, and her brother was glad enough to get out of a late round trip to Manhattan. And over Grand Central Parkway, Queens Boulevard, the Queensboro Bridge, Ed Mott kept Ellen talking about her girlhood, the country she loved.

Ed himself explained tersely that he was a strawberry farmer. He was going to build a frosting plant, and was in New York arranging to market his berries with a concern selling frosted foods. That certainly seemed sensible enough, if a bit humdrum. Ellen said good-night to him, wondering that he did not mention wanting to see her again.

But next afternoon, shortly after she came back from Trepanier's, the apartment buzzer sounded. There was a messenger, bearing two packages. One was from a florist—a trailing three-foot length of yellow rambler roses. The same sort of roses you saw all over the rocks in British Columbia in early July.

HER OWN PICTURE

With a little cry of delight Ellen searched for the card, but there was none.

The other package, a flat one, was—an etching! It was a small one, but it made her gasp. It was a picture of herself!

Staring at it, realizing that the artist had caught much of her real appearance—flattering it, too—she fumbled open the little note which accompanied the picture. It read:

"Dearest Ellen: I grow strawberries in season, and play around with dry-point etching during the long winters. It certainly made me happy that you liked my Tete Jaune. I gave a number of pictures to an art dealer, but didn't know any had been sold. Four were accepted for the Canadian Salon at Toronto, however. Maybe they'll catch on some day.

"I'm coming up at quarter of nine tonight to see you again. Probably I'll talk mighty seriously to you of British Columbia—and other things. You see, I'm going back next week, climbing Yellowhead and dropping down into God's Country. I've a little place at Terrace, between the Cascade and Coast ranges, near Lake LaKelse. You probably never have heard of Terrace, but I can remedy that. That's where strawberries grow on bushes!

"I may as well say right now, my dear, that it will be the greatest disappointment of my life if I have to go back home—alone!

"Yours,

"ED MOTT."

Both Judy and Doris came trudging wearily in from work a few minutes later. They found Ellen all smiles and happy tears, rummaging.

"I—I want to find the atlas!" she gasped, when they questioned her and looked at her strangely. "It's a place called Terrace. Terrace, British Columbia.

"I think maybe I'm—going there—next week!"

THE END.

You'll enjoy tomorrow's amusing story on this page. Anthony Rudd, the author, calls it "Kleptomania."

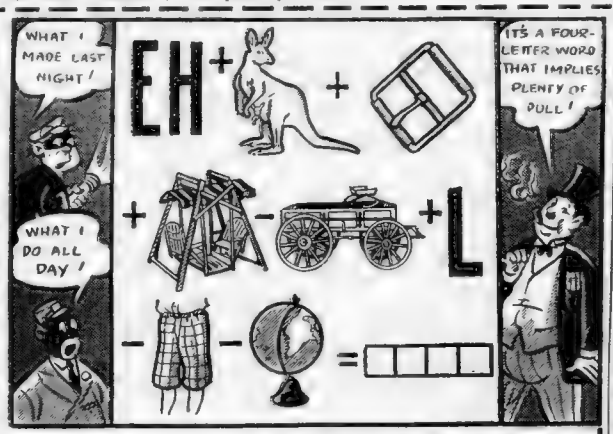
PUZZLE No. 62

WHAT WORD DOES THIS PUZZLE REPRESENT?

Add and Subtract the Letters given, and the letters in the Names of the Objects Pictured.

Fill in your solution, one letter to each square, in the solution diagram that follows the equal sign.



MY NAME IS _____

MY ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon., April 22, to Sat., April 27, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2058, before Midnight, Sat., May 4, together with 10c in coin. In return for remittances, contestants will receive a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Contest is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employees of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 19th 1940 a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One Hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles, without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others, the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

How To Send In Your Answers

In this contest, solutions are submitted in weekly series of six—that is, the six puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week. This week's series (Puzzles 61-66) should be submitted any time before midnight, Saturday, May 4. Ten Cents in coin must accompany each weak's series to qualify for a prize under the rules.

Boston After Dark

By JOSEPH CARTER

(Subbing for George Holland, who is on Vacation)

General Farley at the Copley-Plaza, incidentally said ex-Governor Hurley: "Saltonstall is using the unemployment insurance division to create a huge slush fund to help the Republican party in an election year" . . . We remember it was the huge unemployment compensation commission millstone hung around Charlie's neck that certainly helped to pull him under . . . After employes of the unemployment commission office had testified in open hearing to failure to observe civil service regulations, indiscreet employment of kin, executives and general inefficiency.

BRIGHTON'S city councilor, Maurice H. Sullivan, will announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for registrar of deeds in Suffolk County about May 1 . . . Democratic nomination for this office is the nearest thing to actual election going.

Present incumbent, and running for re-election is William T. A. Fitzgerald, who's been going to work at that same stand for more than a generation . . . But if you think Sullivan is doomed to defeat, don't go around looking to lay down any money on it that Sullivan is the same fellow who tipped over Eddie Gallagher to take the Brighton council seat. No one was more surprised than Eddie at that time . . . Remember?

A GIANT ALCOHOL STILL operating illegally not far from Boston will be raided one day soon now by the Massachusetts State Police, and will make a front page story . . . State troopers have been searching for the plant for weeks, gradually narrowing the circle of operations . . . At one time an innocent-looking little monoplane — in which a student pilot might have been logging flying hours—was actually combing the woods for indications of illicit operations.

The boys who run this still were not only bootlegging alcohol into Boston, but were carrying the coals to Newcastle—they were running spirits into Montreal . . . Explanation of that strange development is that Canadian excise taxes raise the price of native, legal alcohol to a height where the bootleg stuff, even with transportation costs added, can undercut it.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE Oscar Levant, star of the radio program "Information Please" and known the country over as the man who can answer any given question on music, wrestlers, the movies, or the history of the Brooklyn Dodgers, will appear at this year's Frolics of the Boston Newspapermen's Benevolent Ass'n . . . which comes tomorrow night at the Copley-Plaza.

With George M. Cohan, who is also coming, and Joe E. Lewis, who ranks well up with Joe Cook or Jimmy Savo or W. C. Fields, the association is offering quite a dish to its patrons . . . Not to mention the acts and the line girls from the Mayfair, Cocoanut Grove, Kitty Brando's, Latin Quarter and other spots, who play yet ANOTHER benefit that night, out of the goodness of their hearts and their employers'.

HARRY MARSHARD, whose orchestra will play, says the Frolics rank second only to the Gridiron Club shows in Washington as "the best newspaper show in the country" . . . It's the real show of the newspaper world, for the friends of the newspapermen. You can make a reservation at the Copley or through almost any newspaperman in town . . . The profit goes to helping newspapermen and women knocked out by illness or accident.

Elves at Play: Armstrong Training for Paul Junior

AUSTEN LAKE

THE UPSTAIRS FIGHT STUDIO WHERE Henry Armstrong held his first tone-up for Friday night's match with Paul Junior, is a building on lower Friend street, known as the Cave-of-the-winds, where unattached fight managers and all-day-sitters enjoy the loafing privileges and exhale vast gobs of conversation.

A few apprentice pugs were jiggling their images before mirrors, tap-tapping the little wind-bags along the walls, stomach bending or peddling upside-down bicycles. Steep bleacher seats held a crowd, seen dimly outside the ring arc. The air was thick with stale breath.

A swarm of stout men lounged around the training platform, cigars screwed into their lips and glaring through the ropes like pop-eyed goldfish. Armstrong, looking like a miniature, gingerbread Buddha, came out and went through his ghost shuffle, snorting noisily. And presently his brother, Harry, shoved a rubber tooth guard into his mouth, adjusted his head upholstery and he went through a quarter-hour of restrained poking and wrestling with a studio stooge named Tommy Gorman.

The telephone jingled at the corner coin-box and a man's voice barked, "He ain't in—positively No! . . . May be down town! May be up town! . . . Sure! Come up personal if you like. I ain't hidin' him." The receiver banged down with a rude shock.

Mr. Buckley Rhapsodizes

JOHNNY BUCKLEY, THE STUDIO CHAPERONE was telling a heavy-set habitue, "Yeah, a fight fan's fight. Two boys that don't know nothing but punch, punch, punch. I see Armstrong fight Ambers—ten rounds like a couple Harry Grebs . . ." He waxed poetic. ". . . just two finely trained, young, fearless fistic marvels, fighting for the racial honor of the Negroes and for the pride of the Maine followers of Paul Junior."

In the ring, Armstrong was sitting on a corner stool, a handler slapping his calves and giving him sucks of water from a bottle marked with distinctive tape. He turned his puckish countenance and squinted at the crowd. Somebody said, "Sure, this ain't no society fight," and the ringside gallery chorused harsh laughs, barking back curbstone wit.

Mr. Buckley seized on the society theme as Armstrong gobbled his tooth guard and resumed his labors. "Not like where some of those exclusive people go to a cocktail affair and dinner at the Ritz and then come in late. This here's the rough, raw, dyed-in-the-what's-it! Never a phoney on Henry's record."

Good Advance Sale

MR. RIP VALENTI, THE PRODUCER OF THE FIGHT, wandered optimistically in the flanks of the crowd. A bystander whispered insinuatingly, "Sure," said Valenti, "We got plenty left . . . not too plenty. I advise you to hurry, my friend." The bystander, a look of pain on his features, whispered again. Horror struck Valenti's countenance! He made an irritable motion and said, "Naw, we're sellin' them. This ain't for our health."

Well, as Mr. Buckley observed, even in church they got to keep books and ask the congregation to shower down. The whisperer slunk away reproachfully.

Another gentleman, obviously more prosperous, proferred currency and Valenti said, "Yes, I positively got some good ones, picked 'em personally. No not a sellout yet. I cry when you mention sellout these days. But we will go into the Garden with, maybe, $20,000 sold."

An insistent party snatched Valenti's lapels and said, "Say Rip," repetitiously. Valenti rebuffed him with a shove and a glassy stare, advising, "Stand aside, my friend, we got business on our hands."

Paul Junior Trains in Maine

HIS CONDITIONING DONE, ARMSTRONG stripped off his russet gloves and handed them, moist with vaseline and perspiration to his male nurse. His hair was crinkled with moist curls and the flesh above his eyes was thick with scar tissue. But his eyes were fiercely alert, his speech crisp and his talk articulate. Elsewhere on his tobacco-brown skin there was no mark or puffing.

"A fight fan's fighter," began Mr. Buckley in his husky croak. "I hear there's a deluge of Maine money coming down with their favorite. More than 1000 fans coming down by special train to see their fistic idol. Ten to seven on Armstrong and a lot of betting among the red hot fistic admirers of both favorites, as the case may be."

From the rubbing room came the rhythmic pit-a-pat of hands slapping Armstrong's flesh. His day's work was over, but for some slight shadow tapping at the wind bag and a jiggle and a jounce. Paul Junior would come into the city tomorrow.

"Looks good doesn't it?" said a journalist to Mr. Johnny Buckley.

"Good," Mr. Buckley exclaimed, flinging his arms aloft, "it's a clean-cut, absolute sensation."

GROVE SEEKS TO REPEAT OPENING DAY'S VICTORY

By BILL GRIMES

Now, it develops that Robert Moses Grove's 1 to 0 victory over Dutch Leonard in the opening game of the American League season a week ago in Griffith's Stadium down in the nation's capital was nothing more or less than a pre-view, for, weather permitting, the Red Sox veteran southpaw and Bucky Harris' premiere butterfly flinger will be the opposing hurlers this afternoon at Fenway Park.

WAGNER OSTY GROVE

"I'LL GIVE 'EM ANOTHER ZERO"—Lefty Grove, right, shows fashion-plate Charlie Wagner and Fritz Ostermueller how he applies whitewash to Senators. Lefty blanked them with two hits in season's opener, was scheduled to hurl against them again at Fenway Park this p. m.

Boston Evening American Photo

Robert Moses came within two scratch hits of pitching a perfect ball game in the opener at Washington. He retired the first 21 batsmen that faced him in order, did not issue a base on balls, only 29 Nats faced him and he pitched only 93 balls during the entire game. That's pretty good chucking in any man's league.

HAPPY HE MISSED FAME

However, due to the fact that Bob Feller hurled a "no-hit, no-run" game the same afternoon for the Cleveland Indians, Grove's remarkable feat was somewhat overlooked. But, when the Sox Nats game was over and Grove admitted to Manager Joe Cronin that he was glad that he hadn't pitched a "no-hitter because such a feat always puts a jinx on a pitcher, it looks like Lefty knew the answers, judging from what happened to the Indians' ace on his second time out.

Although he freely admits that "Lefty" Grove pitched a great game against him down in Washington, Dutch Leonard isn't convinced that he has any cousins on Joe Cronin's roster. And Manager Stanley "Bucky" Harris is voting a straight ticket with Leonard.

"Grove was great in the opener," admitted Harris, "but, all I would wish for is that Dutch comes up with about 20 more games of the same calibre. If he does, he'll win them all. It was a crime that he was pitted against Grove that afternoon, for Lefty was tops. But, it might be well to bear in mind that but for that slip at the plate, we'd played until darkness without arriving at a decision."

DOM READY FOR ACTION

Having rested since the holiday, Dominic DiMaggio is ready to resume action this afternoon. Dom wrenched his ankle, when he slipped while trying to field a ball that afternoon and he has been receiving daily treatments from Trainer Win Green.

For two days prior to coming here late Sunday night, the Nats had been waterlogged in New York. Apparently Manager Stanley Harris saw that his charges were softening up, due to lack of exercise. So early yesterday morning, the dapper little Washington

Bees Try Hurling Trio In Dodger Game Today

BROOKLYN, April 23—Manager Casey Stengel who never was much of a believer in going by cut and dried rules, will come with a new wrinkle against Brooklyn this afternoon and throw Bees' hurlers against the league leading natives.

That is, of course, provided a little thing like weather doesn't again interfere as it has in the past five games.

Rained out of five consecutive games and idle for six days, the Bees have lost their edge completely and the long spring training grind has just about been ruled out as far as value is concerned.

STRINCEVICH TO START

Because of this, Stengel fears that any attempt to send a pitcher over the route would be a suicide. Case not only believes that the chances are 10 to 1 against any of his slab artists going the distance but there is a possibility that if it was tried, a sore arm might result.

With this as the situation, the Bees pilot will have to consider the next few games in much the same manner as he did early games in the Grapefruit League.

Nick Strincevich, the sensational rookie, will probably get the call today. He will be followed by Joe Sullivan while Dick Errickson is slated to finish up.

QUIET SINCE THURSDAY

Present plans call for each of them to work three frames but if either Strincevich or Sullivan are going well, they may stay an extra inning.

No manager has ever deliberately planned to use three hurlers in a regular league before but Stengel must be admired for his decision in this particular case.

The Bees haven't worked since last Tuesday and everybody has been softened up. The only consolation Stengel has is that Pittsburgh and Philadelphia have fared no better while New York, Brooklyn and Cincinnati have been able to play only one more game.

Red Sox Spring Lemon Now Set for Big Test

By HERB FINNEGAN

Herb Hash was a man of mystery in Florida. The husky, 6-2 Sox rookie, lived downtown with his wife, and visited the Sarasota training quarters only for practice. One saw little of him.

He hurt the elbow of his pitching arm during the early March drills and took it easy for the next two weeks. One saw practically nothing of him.

Finally, on the 15th, he was started against the Dodgers at Clearwater and was shellacked. It was a cold, windy day, and he complained after the game that he had aggravated the elbow injury by throwing curve balls. Another two-week respite. Two innings against Louisville on March 29 completed his total of pitching for the month

RECORD SAVES JOB

"Is he a Jaker?" the boys were asking in all seriousness.

It's a cinch he would have been shipped forthwith to Scranton or Little Rock if he hadn't won 22 games for Minneapolis last year; but anybody who wins 22 games in the Association must have something, so, like Charlie Wagner, he stayed on.

Coming north, Cronin and the coaches went into a huddle over Hash. They would throw him in there at every opportunity, they decided. He couldn't sore arm it forever. He hadn't shown a thing. They'd see what he had, if anything.

LOOKED LIKE CURTAINS

They pitched him three innings against the Reds at Columbia, and he took another shellacking. Eight hits in four innings. It looked like curtains for the likeable Virginian.

They pitched him an inning against the Reds at Winston-Salem. He got by nicely for a change. But one inning was no true test.

They pitched him two more against the same club at Rocky Mount. He actually was superb.

During the trip from Roanoke, Va., to Bluefield, W. Va., though the beautiful Shenandoah Valley, Hash acted as lecturer for some four or five intermittent card players. It was his home country, and perhaps a touch of nostalgia gave him tongue.

He told of his childhood in the valley, of his farm life, of his early baseball days; how the kids made a ball from the yarn of a cotton sock, with rubber core and tape from the village store.

He told of the fertility of the valley soil, how the winter snows would aid the wheat crop. He told of the state hatcheries which stocked the trout and bass streams, of the marvelous fishing from September to November; how he missed most of it last year by barnstorming through the Dakotas.

GRATEFUL TO CRONIN

Later, alone, he had asked:

"Am I pitching today?"

He wasn't.

"Doesn't matter," he had said. "I'm ready now. I judged myself just right. I'm grateful to Joe (Cronin) for having given me that time off in Florida.

"If I had put pressure on the arm, I'm afraid I would have hurt it seriously. Rest was the proper prescription. I was grateful, and now I'm ready. I felt right at Rocky Mount for the first time. Watch me go from now on."

EXERCISES ON DAYS OFF

"You haven't had enough work to keep you warm," we ventured. "How could you be ready?"

"Don't need much work," he replied. "Whenever we can't play, I always do calisthenics for an hour or so, and get my work in that way.

"I keep my body, particularly my legs, in shape," he said. "My arm keeps in tone with the rest of my body. I'm ready, I tell you."

This was a new angle, but then Lefty Grove hadn't done any more pitching than Hash in the South, and Lefty proved he was ready by blanking the Senators with two hits last Tuesday.

Hash followed suit by pitching two exceptional innings against the A's on Patriots' Day as relief pitcher. And he hadn't worked since April 7.

"Told you I was ready," he grinned when we next met him. "I could have pitched all afternoon. Those setting up drills do the trick. I've had plenty of chance to practice them over the week-end, so I ought to be real sharp next time out. Hope Joe starts me soon."

BIG RELAY CARNIVALS THIS WEEK

If you like foot-racing so much that you're willing to sit all day to watch scantily clad young men running around a cinder track, handing batons from one to another, you'll have three big chances this week-end, according to the Associated Press.

Giving the outdoor track season its traditional flying start, the Penn and Drake relay carnivals will be run off next Friday and Saturday at Philadelphia and Des Monies, and the Colorado relays Saturday, at Boulder.

Each one features four-manperformances and each draws some 29500 to 3000 athletes from high schools and colleges in addition to a few picked stars for special events.

KEEN RIVALRY

There's a keen rivalry between the Penn and Drake meets and the directors like nothing better than to come up with a few stars from the other's territory. Colorado can't compete with them

At Drake, Director Frank Johnson, soon to become Stanford coach, has rounded up what he considers the best field yet. The field includes representatives of every Big Ten college and such individual aces as Earle Meadows, Fred Wolcott, Roy Cochran and weight star Elmer Hackney. He figures meet records may be broken in seven of the ten special events

The high spot is the pole vault in which Meadows, recently dethroned by Cornelius Warmerdam, the first 15-fot pole vaulter, will aim at a new mark of 15 2.

SPECIAL MILE AT PENN

H. Jamison Swarts, who runs the Penn meet, counters with a special mile in which Chuck Fenske, Gene Venzke and Walter Mehl will try tob reak Glenn Cunningham's meet record of .:18.8, Al Blozis, the Georgetown weight throwing star, and Welby Williams, ace sprinter from North Texas Teachers.

Penn's mile relay championship race has an especially notable field, including Pitt, which set the record of 3:1.8 last year; North Texas, New York University and Ohio State.

Bob Quinn First to Ask Late Start, 140 Games

By BILL GRIMES

Twelve years ago, when he was president and owner of the Red Sox, Pres. Bob Quinn of the Boston baseball team was trying to convince the American and National League magnates that they should reduce their schedules to 140 games

Now, due to the numerous cancellations of major league games, the baseball scribes and radio sport broadcasters are all going out on a limb about this and that magnate's innovation of reducing the schedules.

Owner Walter O. Briggs of the Detroit Tigers was given credit for the 140-game schedule idea. When Bob Quinn hit upon the 140-game solution for rainy springs and cold falls, Walter O. Briggs was too busy shaming open cars off the roads to be able to offer any time to baseball problems.

STOPPED BY BREADON

Back in 1928, when he suggested that the major league schedules be curtailed to 70 home and a like number of away from home games, Bob Quinn received very little support from the other magnates Dyed in the wool baseball men, such as Clark Griffith, Connie Mack and Ed Barrows were in favor of Quinn's proposal but Sam Breadon of the St Louis Cardinals spiked the recommendation.

Bob Quinn suggested that the American and National Leagues postpone the opening of their seasons until about April 23 or 24 and that they wind up the last of September. He stressed the fact that although there are as many league clubs in the mid-West as there are in the Atlantic coastline, the big money is in the East. And, it's the East that gets the tough shake from the weather man in the spring and fall.

Under favorable weather conditions, such as are customary late in April, opening games in Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Washington and even Philadelphia, would attract double the attendance they do in the middle of that month

POOR BUSINESS MEN

Although it costs approximately $25,000 to $30,000 for spring training trips, there is little revenue, and this is particularly true in Florida, from exhibition games. When major league clubs return from the South, the fans are all steamed up over the national pastime. But, they cool off quickly, if they don't get to see their heroes in action, under favorable conditions. They are super-critical in cold weather and therefore are liable to put "thumbs down" on a club that gets off to a poor start, simply because they are too cold to analyze the verdicts

Present day baseball is overrun with business men. Then, how come they don't realize that their baseball investments will show more profit by a later start and an earlier finish?

Cinci Field Flooded; Reds Call Off Games

CINCINNATI, April 23 (AP)—The Ohio river won today's baseball game—and tomorrow's—from the St. Louis Cards and Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds called both contests off as the flood, rising above 58 feet, covered the outfield of Crosley Field. Another foot will put home plate under and a 60 foot stage, forecast for tomorrow, will submerge the pitcher's mound

ARMSTRONG RING RISE AMAZING

The rise of Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion of the world who risks his crown against stubborn Paul Junior here at the Garden, Friday night, has been nothing short of phenomenal, in fact a story-book climb.

Eight years ago he was a raggedy kid who set up pins in a St. Louis bowling alley, making just enough to get by and sit in occasionally on a fried chicken or a pork chop. He hitch-hiked his way to Hollywood and admits that, en route, he had no more nourishment than a loaf of bread and a chunk of salami which he carefully nursed to make it last the distance.

There he started his ring career and today he's a dapper, polished, luxuriously tailored idol, a bronze Beau Brummell, financially secure for life and far from the finish of one of the boxing's most brilliant careers.

A spectacular climb, indeed, but it hasn't changed the champ a bit according to those who knew him when he was setting 'em up in St. Louis.

Boston has found Armstrong one of the most likeable of all athletes, pleasant, quiet, intelligent and far from the general version of what a fighter is like. Armstrong is deeply interested in literature and has a flair for poetry, spending most of his spare time reading and scribbling rhymes.

Boston folk will find out all about Henry, the fighter, Friday night when Hank starts firing at Paul Junior in the Goodwin A. C. extravaganza which is listed for 15 rounds but which Armstrong hopes to halt much sooner.

Grove, Leonard Repeat Opening Roles for Hub

manager contacted Carrol Getchell of the Harvard A. A., hoping to obtain permission to work out in the cage at Soldiers Field.

Getch wished that he could extend the privileges of the Harvard indoor cage to the Nats but Dick Harlow was scheduled to hold football practise (Is that off the record, Tommy?) and moreover, the baseball and soccer squads were listed for indoor workouts in the same buildings. Therefore, the Nats were out.

Then, Manager Harris tried the Commonwealth Avenue Armory. No dice.

HITS AT TUFTS

Along about that time, Manager Harris began to lose confidence in telephones. So, he hopped into a car, drove out to Tufts College and waited for Prof. Clarence Houstan to come out of class. While Harris was in consultation with Prof. Houstan, Manager Joe Cronin was trying to contact the Tufts' athletic director (Or is he a graduate manager?)

Then, it developed that Prof. Houstan had promised the use of the Tufts cage to Boston University. Dr. John M. Harmon waived his rights and the Nats were given permission to practice until 3:30.

LOST EN ROUTE TO TUFTS

Sec. Ed Eynan, who is a man of few words but who packs plenty of action, contacted the Boston Elevated Co. for a bus to transport the Nats from Fenway Park to Tufts College. But, with all his efficiency, Mr. Eynan forgot to stipulate that the driver of the bus should know his Boston and suburbs. The bus driver, not knowing any more about the exact locale of Tufts College than he did about Slippery Rock, toured the Nats around Greater Boston for more than an hour and then with the assistance of three or four traffic cops and as many citizens finally reached his destination.

Let's Go Fishing!

NOR'EASTER FAILS TO STOP ANGLERS AT PLYMOUTH POND

By DARK MONTREAL

While the week-end nor'easter was raging, driving coastwise shipping to cover and lashing all New England with the worst late April weather in years, hardy anglers nevertheless braved the blasts on Long Pond, Plymouth.

And at least one of them—Doc Fuller of Brockton—took a 3½-pound rainbow.

The amateur statisticians, who can tell you how many losing poker hands you have to hold before you draw a royal flush pat, have doped out a hopeful theory that the lack of sunshine in recent weeks augurs perfect fishing days and weeks and months later in the season.

The good old law of averages is positively gonna come to the rescue of disconsolate Ike Waltons, if they keep their courage, according to the two-and-two-makes-four wise guys.

Otis Campbell, the Atlantic ave. bait man, says he hears salt water white perch are being taken in tidewater streams and brackish ponds along the south side of the Cape. They're protected in fresh water by state law.

A persistent but still unverified report tells of early season stripers being caught in the North river. Both Campbell and Eddie Farrell of Bob Smith's have heard the story, but neither has been able to corroborate it.

Notes from this column's special Long Pond, Plymouth, correspondent (Come out from behind those week-old whiskers, Win; we know you).

Ern Bassett's boats at the foot of Long Pond are not available this year. Only boats to rent on the pond are those of Elmer Raymond on the cove near the fishing grounds and Harry Woodward at the head of the pond . . . The grand order of Salmon fishers rejoices at the return to the wars of Trescott Tisdale, of Taunton, seriously ill during the winter. "Tizzy," who has taken some of the biggest landlocked caught in Massachusetts, has moved a new skiff up to Long from Peters pond . . .

Tom Halpin, who took the 7½ pound Chinook at Long last year, had one good day of trout fishing on Peters with John Rigby . . . Rigby and Doc Tessier drew a blank on their first day on Long . . . Doc Tessier holds the Long Pond record with an 11 pound, two ounce Chinook.

The six salmon taken by John Anderton's boat at Long pond on opening day—one six-pound fish and three over five — was the strongest sort of refutation for the fish and game division's half-developed theory that Long pond salmon-stocking is a waste of effort . . . Some of those game fish being put into Jamaica pond for the short-of-time anglers had better be stocked in the wild ponds.

The new season has brought out its usual crop of stories surrounding the efforts of the novice anglers but one of the very best comes from Pete Cheauteau, the top game warden for the Plymouth district. The warden had been keeping a close watch on Barrett's pond in the Myles Standish reservation, where fly-fishing only is permitted, and he thought he had something when he spotted two lads sitting on the bank fishing with bob-floats. Visioning fat night crawlers under the bobs, he made himself known and demanded to see the bait. The boys were still fishing with flies dropped from the floats. Pete thereupon made a couple of fly fishermen. He showed the new comers what to do and how to do it and stayed around long enough to see one of them raise a big square-tail on a cast fly.

The day the Rhode Island trout fishing season opened, 13-year-old Richie Remington of West Barrington was so busy with hook and line at Bicknell Pond he somehow failed to hear the school bell ringing.

He didn't catch a trout, but he did catch plenty of trouble from his teacher. She made him write a long composition on the sinfulness of truancy.

So, after that, staying out of school to go trout fishing was hardly practicable. But Richie solved his problem by getting up every morning at 3 o'clock, reaching the pond at crack of dawn, and wielding rod and reel until school time.

He caught a lot of perch and sunfish, but he couldn't seem to connect with any trout. Yet trout—and nothing else—were what he was fishing for.

Finally, a couple of days ago, Richie came home triumphant. He had his trout—a real speckled beauty—and it measured exactly one-eighth of an inch over the legal limit.

So now Richie—and his family—are catching up on early morning sleep.

Richie wouldn't let his mother or big sister lay so much as a finger on his trophy. He cleaned and cooked the monster trout, himself. And, yes, you've guessed it. He ate it, too.

By JACK CONWAY

IT LOOKED like old times for the boxing game as Hammering Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight champion, traded punches with Joe O'Gorman for two rounds at Johnny Buckley's Gym which is sort of a penthouse for Jack Sharkey's Friend street tavern.

The walls of the gym were pushed back by customers who had paid 25 cents to get a peek at Armstrong, while more daring individuals crowded close to the ring, and even suggested to Hammering Henry what he should do.

Jack Sharkey remarked it was the largest crowd to jam into the gym since he was boxing some of his top fights seven to ten years ago. For their 25 cent admission the spectators had the right to have "gymnasium privileges," but they passed up doing any exercise more strenuous than gazing upon Armstrong in action.

Nobody fell asleep as Hammering Henry tossed leather. During a recent visit to the same gymnasium I saw two spectators slumbering peacefully as a couple of third class boxers proved how little they knew about the manly art of self defense.

If Harry Benwell has as many active newspapermen present at his Press Frolics at the Copley Plaza tomorrow night as were in Buckley's Gym, he will be perfectly satisfied. There was also an array of news photographers who had Armstrong busier posing for pictures than he has been winning some of his title quarrels.

Armstrong did not disappoint his audience. He proved he is the fastest leather pusher to ever step into a local ring. It is expected that the welterweight boss will continue on high when he risks his precious championship against Paul Junior of Lewiston, Me., in a 15-round bout at the Garden on Friday night.

Armstrong Wins by Fury of His Attack

I ASKED JACK Sharkey what he thought of Armstrong.

"Armstrong is a good fighter," replied Sharkey. "One can see why he succeeds. He keeps in motion every second he is in the ring, moves forward, and tosses a million punches. The other fellow gets tired or discouraged, and goes down to defeat.

"I do not believe Armstrong tosses punches any faster than Andy Callahan did when the Lawrence boxer was at his best. Like Armstrong, Callahan would give away weight to an opponent and win. I always thought Callahan beat Vince Dundee in the Garden the night the Baltimore boxer's world's middleweight championship was at stake."

Armstrong has a big, powerful chest, and large shoulders. This is where he gets his power.

I would have liked to have seen Sammy Fuller against Armstrong when the former North End lightweight was at his best. Fuller, like Armstrong, was built exceptionally big around the chest and shoulders. This is why he got such terrific power behind his left hook.

Armstrong says he will fight Paul Junior with the same fury he displayed in his recent ten-round draw with Ceferino Garcia in Los Angeles.

"Paul Junior has had over 300 fights and he met some good boxers," said Armstrong. "I feel I will have to be at my best to win. A champion who underrates his ring rivals is sure to meet with defeat. There isn't a great deal of difference in boxing ability between a title holder and a leading contender. Often it is the matter of condition and courage."

Moves Camp to Harry Kelley's Gym

SO THAT EACH Boston gym will get some benefit from his drawing powers Armstrong was to train at Kelley & Hayes' gym on Hanover street today. One must give Armstrong credit for being a good diplomat as well as a top boxer. It is easy to see Armstrong is following a line of action outlined by Eddie Mead, his capable manager.

Tomorrow night Hammering Henry will take a little time out to journey to Worcester where he will referee at a boxing show that will be held at Mechanics Building.

The Worcester show will have a decided Irish touch. The feature ten-round bout will bring together "Irish" Johnny McHale of New York, a protege of Jimmy Johnston, and Billy Campamale of Worcester. McHale recently gave Howell King plenty of opposition at Worcester.

Tom Casey, Irish heavyweight and a brother of Jim Casey, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will toss his terrific right hand sock at Danny Josephs of Providence. Casey looks like one of the most promising of the new crop of heavyweights. He has exceptional speed for a big man, while he gets great power behind his right hand wallop.

Herb Coonan, Worcester heavyweight and a graduate of the All-America tournament, will take on Paddy Reed of Pawtucket, R. I. in the six-round semi-final. Joe O'Gorman of South Boston will mingle with Al DeAngelo of Marlboro in a four rounder, while in another four Al Scully will oppose Billy Barbour.

Random Shots at Target

IN THE GALLERY that watched Henry Armstrong box was "Tiger" Warrenton, colored heavyweight from Nova Scotia . . . Warrenton is ready to meet Al McCoy, Buddy Knox or Bob Pastor . . . Warrenton gave Pastor more trouble than the latter has received from any heavyweight other than Joe Louis.

Bob McGourty, manager of Warrenton, also took in the Armstrong training . . . Bob remarked that Armstrong made good when he received his ring opportunity, and he is confident Warrenton will also click once he gets into the ring with a leading heavyweight.

$75,000 In Prizes For Pros

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 23—A grand total of $75,000 in prize money has been placed at stake for spring and summer golf tournaments. All Jimmy Demaret, the man in the pink pants, has to do is go and get it.

And the assumption is that he will get his portion of the spoils, starting with the annual Goodall round robin match play tournament at Flushing, N. Y., May 16-19. Lest the name Demaret has slipped your mind under the heckling of censustakers, income-taxers and other odds and ends, we will remind you that he is the hottest thing golf has seen in years.

The Professional Golf Association today announced the amount involved in various competitions in the next few months, but neglected somehow to bring Demaret's name up. Hence, we're doing it, for the Goodall Round Robin and other tournaments, including the National Open at Cleveland in June, very easily could be his for the asking—or the swinging, in a manner of speaking.

DEMARET RED HOT

We can't recall any golfer ever getting hot so suddenly and staying hot so long as Demaret, the man in the purple pants, has in the short period devoted to the winter tour.; If he doesn't fall off suddenly, the PGA announcement of purses lined up through the summer is tantamount to simply providing more capital to the Texan in the green pants.

He finished the winter tour more than $1000 in front in money winnings and was still piling on the pressure at the finish, with a steak the likes of which the old guard professionals hadn't encountered before.

Assuming that Demaret will enter most of the big money tournaments currently in the offing, here is the schedule as released by the P. G. A.:

May 16-19, Goodall round robin, $5000; May 24-26, Metropolitan open $2000; June 6-8, U. S. open, Cleveland, $6000; June 13-16, Inverness (Ohio) invitational $6000; July 19-21, Chicago open, $5000; July 25-28, St. Paul open, $7500 Aug. 1-4, Milwaukee open $5000; Aug. 16-11, tentative; Aug. 1517, Canadian open, $3000; Aug. 26-Sept. 1, P. G. A. championship, Hershey, Pa., $15,-000; Sept. 3-8, Anthracite open, Scranton, Pa., $5000.

THIS IS EASY—Don Budge, whose tennis is infallible, tries his hand at golf between match in the annual North and South tennis tournament at Pinehurst and finds it a cinch. Doug Gubner of New York watches. Golf didn't hurt Don's tennis any because he routed Dick Skeen, fellow-Californian, 6—0, 6—3, 6—0, to win the singles title and, paired with Bruce Barnes, also won in the doubles, beating Skeen and John Faunce of California, 6—4, 6—0, 7—5.

Stewards Force L. E. Ogle to Use Apprentice

If any further evidence was needed that the stewards at Gansett are really cracking down it was forthcoming at entry time Monday.

On Thursday L. E. Ogle raced the seven-year-old gelding Adolf with Apprentice E. Suttle in the saddle. The horse which started a favorite, finished a poor third, beaten five lengths.

When Ogle entered the horse for today's races he was informed that he must ride E. Suttle and use the same equipment or the entry would be refused.

State racing administrator Louis C. Gerry has issued explicit orders that the practice of putting an inexperienced apprentice on a horse and sending him out for a look around, must end. The action of the stewards indicates that they are awake to the fact that Mr. Gerry is determined to give the public full protection against this practice.

The entry of Adolf was accepted and Suttle will ride him today with no changes in equipment.

Gansett's already large horse colony will be augmented this week by the arrival of several stables. George Odom sends word he is shipping in eight head later in the week. D. J. Sullivan will unload 15 head from Maryland tomorrow and a carload of 14 consigned by Mrs. J. A. Nix, L. Avant and Jimmy Vaughan is already on the way from California.

The steward's have placed Bacon, Butter Beans, Mexico City and R. Pinchot on the list of horses which will not be allowed to start until certified by them.

Apprentice Danny Johnston who has been visiting in Canada, reported to his contract employer John Hazza here.

Under Water

What happens when flood waters go on rampage is this view of the business section of Marietta, Ohio . . . with residents taking to rowboats to get about. Waters rose to five feet above flood stage in this city, but later a slight recession was noted. Many families in the low lying districts were forced to flee their homes.

Scuttlers

Taken aboard a British warship after scuttling their Nazi freighter in the Atlantic, German crew members, prisoners of war, are pictured as they were landed at an English port. They're headed for concentration camp, where they'll remain for the duration of the war. Note youth of prisoner (center) facing camera.
